JAYHAWKERS HOLD HOPES FOR VICTORY

Pep Carnivals at Lawrence Feature Parade Over Mile Long — Kansas Holds Weight Advantage — Homecoming Crowd Estimated at 12,000—41st Meeting of Schools.

By GREGG M'BRIDE.

MEMORIAL STADIUM, Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 17—The Nebraska Cornhuskers hit their first mud of the 1934 football campaign Saturday afternoon when the scarlet met the Kansas Jayhawkers in the major Big Six assignment of the day's conference card.

A drizzle which fell intermittently during the morning hours assumed steady rain proportions at 12 o'clock. The playing field had been wet down last Thursday to soften the hard clay and when the game started pooles of water dotted the grid. To make matters still worse the summer drouth had thinned the sod and barren spots promised to be muddy and skiddish before the game was long under way.

The rain settled into a downpour at game time. Nebraska won the first victory when the two bands marched on the field. The Cornhuskers musicians outnumbered the Jayhawker tooters by 40 pieces. The crowd was expected to reach 12,000 in spite of unfavorable weather.

N. U. Rooters Rally.

The student special carrying the University band and more than 500 rooters reached Lawrence during the noon hour and staged an impromptu rally on the main street corners. The work of the Cornhusker adherents did a great bit toward counteracting a big celebration held at Mt. Oread on the eve of the game and which featured a pep parade over one mile in length.

Hundreds of Cornhusker followers made the trip by auto caravan and soon had the lobby of the sedate Hotel Eldridge, the city's leading hostelry, jammed to the walls.

Nebraskans inclined to lay little coin on the dotted line found K. U. supporters confident of victory but not willing to back their judgment with the long green. Certainly the game would be played on a drenched gridiron found the Huskers kicking back on early ideas about giving point odds.

The 25-6 beating Nebraska took from Pittsburgh was a boom to Kansas in the home coming battle. K. U. rooters have hoped this since 1896.

Weight comparisons show Kansas considerably heavier than Nebraska, the Jayhawkers being particularly heftier in the line. Probable lineups:

Nebraska—	Pos.	—Kansas
Toman (g. c.)	LE	Wells
Pflum	LT	Decs
Heldt	LG	Moore
Meier	C	Phelps
Justice	RG	Sklar
Holmbeck	RT	Clawson
Scherer	RE	Seigle
Bauer	QB	Kell
Benson	LH	Hapgood
Cardwell	RH	Stukey
Skewes	FB	O. Nesmith

Officials: Referee—E. C. Quigley, St. Mary's. Umpire—Ira Carrithers, Illinois. Linesman—C. E. McBride, Missouri Valley.

FIRST PERIOD.

Nebraska won the toss and chose to receive. Kansas will defend the north goal. There was a slight wind advantage. Sklar kicked off 50 yards to Bauer who returned to the Nebraska 31-yard line.

Time was called while a towel was obtained for each center. Cardwell broke through for three yards before he slipped. Cardwell was hurt and Nebraska took time out.

Parsons went in the Nebraska backfield for Cardwell, the Seward back limping to the sidelines. Benson lost a yard on a try at the Kansas left end. Skewes punted out of bounds on the Nebraska 47-yard line.

Hapgood went over the Nebraska left tackle for eight yards. Stukey rammed center for a yard. Happgood tried a swing and three Huskers broke through and tossed him for a 10 yard loss. Toman and Benson spilled him. Bauer fumbled Stukey's kick but got the ball back on the Nebraska 8-yard line. The kick would have gone over the goal line.

Players Mud Spattered.

Skewes kicked from the end zone and Hapgood returned the punt three yards to the Nebraska 42-yard line. Hapgood made a yard at the Nebraska left guard. The players by this time were well splattered with mud.

Kell plunged for four yards. Scherer made a great tackle of Hapgood for a 5-yard loss. Holmbesk slowed him down.

Stukey kicked out of bounds on the Nebraska 20-yard line. Benson broke around the Kansas left end and ran 24 yards to the Nebraska 44-yard line before he slipped and was overtaken.

Parsons hit the K. U. right tackle for five yards. Parsons swung the Kansas right end for a first down on the Kansas 31-yard line. He was forced out of bounds. It was a 20-yard gain. Skewes failed to gain at the Kansas left guard.

A lateral pass Bauer to Benson gained a first down on the Kansas 19-yard line. Watkins went in for Phelps in the Kansas line, thus, getting a clean jersey into the game. Watkins moved over to Sklar's guard, the latter leaving the game.

It was a time out for Kansas.

Parsons Makes 12.

Parsons broke inside the Kansas right end for a first down on the Kansas 7 yard line, a 12 yard gain.

Peterson replaced O. Nesmith in the Kansas backfield. Skewes hit the Kansas left guard for three yards.

Parsons lost three yards on a try at the Kansas right end. Peterson stopped him in the mud.

Benson missed the pass from center and the Huskers were set back to the Kansas 18-yard line. Bauer's pass was broken up and Kansas took the ball on downs on its 18-yard stripe. Wells broke up the pass.

Stukey got off a poor punt on the first play. The kick apparently was partially blocked by Pflum and went out of bounds on the Kansas 28-yard line. Benson skidded around the Kansas left end for a one yard gain. He slid four yards after being tackled.

Parsons picked up one more at the Kansas right tackle. Bauer's pass to Toman missed connections, the ball being almost knocked into his hands by Hapgood.

Parsons lost a yard on a try at the Kansas right end and the Jayhawkers took the ball on downs on the K. U. 27-yard line.

Bad Pass.

Stukey got a bad pass from center and the ball skidded to the Kansas 13-yard line before he dropped on it. The field was a quagmire. Stukey's punt was again partially blocked and went out of bounds on the Kansas 24 yard line.

Benson gained three yards on a sweep at the Kansas left end. Skewes went over the Kansas left guard for two yards. Ball on Kansas 19-yard line.

Bauer failed to gain on a spinner.

Parsons broke through the line and whirled through for a first down on the K. U. 11-yard line. Kansas took out time. Francis replaced Skewes in the Nebraska backfield.

Giannangelo replaced Peterson in the Kansas backfield. Peterson had a bad cut over his eye.

Francis fumbled on the first play and Kansas recovered on the K. U. 13-yard line. Phelps recovered for Kansas.

The quarter ended before the Jayhawkers could get off a play. Score: Nebraska 0; Kansas, 0.

SECOND PERIOD.

Sklar went back in the Kansas lineup for Watkins. Harris replaced Stukey in the K. U. backfield.

Harris got off a nice punt which Bauer carried back 15 yards to the Kansas 37-yard line. Bauer fumbled when tackled and Giannangelo recovered for Kansas on the Kansas 43-yard line. Stukey went back in the Kansas backfield for Harris.

Bauer ran Stukey's punt back to the Nebraska 25-yard line. Francis fumbled the low pass from center but surprised the Jayhawkers and got four yards around the Kansas right end. The ball was slippery and hard to hold. Benson gained a yard around the Kansas left end.

Hapgood returned Francis punt 15 yards to the Kansas 40-yard line. The rain had nearly stopped. Giannangelo failed to gain over Holmbeck.

ARGUE CARLSEN PLEA FOR WRIT OF CORAM NOBIS

Application Is Taken Under Advisement By Judge Broady.

The history of English common law was plumbed Saturday morning when District Judge Broady heard arguments upon and took under advisement the application of C. C. Carlsen for a writ of coram nobis through which he hopes to have the case in which he was convicted of forgery on May 26, 1933 re-opened.

Application for the writ, which was filed on November 1 and which is temporarily delaying transmission from the Supreme court to the District court of the mandate ordering Carlsen's commitment to the penitentiary sets for that on October 27, 1934, Thomas J. McLaughlin of Havelock who testified against Carlsen had voluntarily disclosed that his testimony was "incomplete and inaccurate."

McLaughlin, in an affidavit, said he had discovered—in a recent conversation with his son Michael T. McLaughlin, a practicing attorney—that he actually did grant authority to Carlsen for execution of certain coupons by the facsimile method, contrary to his testimony in the trial. He said he granted it to R. G. Sutton of Osceola, Ia., and Vern Hicks, also of Iowa, orally.

Says Move Justified.

E. B. Perry, who presented the application for Carlsen, the latter being in the courtroom with him, said the discovery of these latent errors of fact justify a new trial, even though the statutory time for such a move under provisions of

LIFE TERM IS JURY VERDICT FOR MALMBERG

Find Hitch-Hiker Guilty Of Murder; Reject Insanity Plea.

SCHUYLER, Neb., Nov. 17—(AP)—Harold Malmberg, 19, of Des Moines, was found guilty of first degree murder by a District court jury here Friday night. The jury fixed the penalty at life imprisonment.

Harold Malmberg.

After approximately nine hours of deliberation, the jurors rejected the youth's insanity plea, and found him guilty of the hitch hike slaying of Russell Goodwin, 42, Genoa, salesman, near here September 6.

The state charged Malmberg shot Goodwin fatally after Goodwin picked him up for a ride. Desire for Goodwin's automobile was alleged to have been the motive.

The defense claimed Malmberg has been subnormal mentally since he fell on his head into a cistern when four years old.

NAVY TACKLES PITT PANTHERS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 17—(AP)—Before a crowd of 25,000 that overflowed Thompson stadium, Navy's battling young football team sought its eighth successive win of the season today over a favored eleven from the University of Pittsburgh. A warm Indian summer day greeted one of the largest crowds in Navy's home history, on hand to cheer Navy to the hoped-for victory that would carry it into the Army game with a perfect record.

FIRST PERIOD.

Cutter kicked off for Navy, booting the pigskin over Pitt's goal. The Golden Panthers then set in motion their powerful running offensive that reeled off the 80 yards to Navy's goal in short order. Weinstock smashed over the line for the last 2 yards after Nicksick had been run out of bounds by Borries on an end run that netted 8 yards. The Sailors were unable to solve or stop the fast clicking Panther attack that saw Nicksick tear loose for a pair of 15-yard runs and Weinstock battered the line almost at will. Weinstock failed in his place kick try for the extra point and Pitt led 6 to 0.

The Navy could not gain after the kick-off and punted to Pitts' 38. The Panthers immediately swung back into high gear. Larue made 14 on a cut-back off tackle and Nicksick shot loose on a similar play for 24 yards. Navy held temporarily, but, with fourth down and 2 yards to go on the 12-yard line Larue circled left end behind a screen of interference for another touchdown. Ormiston missed the place kick for the extra point and the Panthers led 12 to 0, as the quarter ended.

SECOND PERIOD.

Pitt substituted almost a new team leaving only the starting ends in the game. Navy's passing game from Borries to Pratt and Clark carried the Sailors to midfield but Pratt fumbled and lost 17 and the Middies kicked. Pitt drove 29 to its 43 before a penalty threw it back 15 and forced a kick.

Borries tossed a 30-yard pass to King who had a clear field ahead but was caught from behind by Kutz, Pitt guard, on the 14 yard line after running 35 yards. Pitt's first team was rushed back into the game. Navy punched out a first down on the 4-yard line but Borries lost 5 on an end run. On a triple pass Lee to Borries to King the Navy scored. King leaped above a group of Panthers to grab Borries' throw [illegible] the goal. Cutter placekicked the extra point and it was Pitt 12, Navy 7 at the half.

Rain and Drizzles Fall Here Saturday; First In Two Weeks

Rain, the first since November 2, began falling in Lincoln shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Intermittent drizzles had fallen from a heavily clouded sky during the morning and prospects were that the rain would continue. The weather bureau held, however, that it was too warm to snow.

With temperatures rising steadily throughout the night and the weather still misty and cloudy, Nebraskans in the east end of the state had a measure of difficulty in knowing whether the season was spring or fall. The low temperature was 52 degrees at 10 o'clock Friday night.

Dense Fog Blamed For Missouri Plane Crash

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—A sudden, dense fog was blamed by Bob Shields, Rapid Air Lines, Inc., operations manager, for a plane crash yesterday near Amazonia, Mo., in which H. C. Brasfield, manager of the St. Joseph airport, and Ben F. Billings of Kansas City, the pilot, were killed. Shields said he was positive there was no motor trouble.

F. D. R. PAUSES AT TOMBS OF JACKSON, POLK

President's Party Proceeds to Alabama After Nashville Visit.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 17—(AP)—After spending the morning in a tour of Nashville and vicinity, including pilgrimages to the tombs of Presidents Andrew Jackson and James K. Polk, President Roosevelt left today for Alabama to inspect Wilson and Wheeler dams, part of the Tennessee vallee development that he inaugurated.

When the party reached the capitol here, where all approaches were jammed with people, a 21-gun salute roared out.

The president did not alight from his car at the capitol grounds, but Mrs. Roosevelt walked down the steep slope from the drive to the tomb of President James K. Polk and laid there a wreath before the graves of Polk and his wife.

Immediately after this ceremony was over, the party started the 13-mile trip to the Hermitage, home of President Andrew Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt were escorted into the Hermitage by Governor McAlister, Senator

FEDERAL AGENTS JOIN HUNT FOR MISSING CHILD

Lexington, Ky., Boy Gone Since Thursday; Blonde Girl Sought.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 17—(AP)—Federal agents today joined the hunt for 4-year-old Jackie Gibbons, missing from his home here since Thursday. Police were looking for a blonde girl hitch-hiker reported seen that afternoon with a child who looked like Jackie.

John Gibbons, the boy's father, left his duties at the Northern States Construction Co., to help Lexington, Kentucky and Tennessee officers look for his son.

Meanwhile the boy's mother remained at home with his 2-year-old brother.

The child strayed or was taken from the yard in front of his home near the city limits. The report of the boy with the hitch-hiker on the Nicholasville pike, south of the city, is the only clue obtained.

Posses have combed fields, culverts, sewer lines and cliffs along the Kentucky river.

Police Chief Ernest Thompson Friday night asked federal aid. Two operatives took the trail today. Doubting a kidnaping for ransom, police were at a loss to explain Jackie's continued absence.

JUDGE REFUSES ACQUIT INSULLS

Testimony In $100,000,000 Utility Fraud Trial Is Ended.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(AP)—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today denied motions by which Samuel Insull, sr., and his son, Samuel jr., asked him to direct the jury trying them for mail fraud to return a verdict of acquittal.

Similar motions on behalf of four officials of Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment banking house, were also overruled.

The other defendants made similar motions three weeks ago at the close of the government's case, and were likewise denied.

The motions came at the close of testimony in the case, which charges Insull, his son and 15 business associates with defrauding investors in the Corporation Securities Co. of $100,000,000.

Young Insull was recalled to the stand today by the defense and was asked only one question, to contradict government testimony that the losses of the Insull family, in the crash of the Corporation Securities Co., was "mostly paper profits" made in that company.

"How much did your father and mother lose in the collapse of the Corporation Securities Co.?" he was asked.

"Between fourteen and fifteen million dollars," Insull replied.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17—(AP)—Tommy Thomas, veteran southern California pilot and all three passengers in his biplane were killed today in a crash in the San Fernando valley north of here.

The coroner's office here reported that the dead had been tentatively identified as:

W. E. (Tommy) Thomas, pilot.
Roy W. Kidd, mechanic.
F. M. Mathews.
Dorothy Benham, telephone operator.

The biplane, cruising in a high fog, crashed into the hillside beside a spillway of the municipal aqueduct, about 20 miles from here.

Head For Foothills.

The four persons had left Union air terminal 6:30 a. m. to fly over the foothills of the Tehachapi mountains near Saugus, where on Thursday night a TWA mail plane piloted by George Rice made a forced landing.

About an hour and a half later, the motor of the plane was heard by P. S. Cagnacci, transmission patrolman of the municipal bureau of power and light, who was patrolling the aqueduct. The plane was above the low clouds and shrouded in fog.

A few minutes later he saw it crash and burst into flames beside the spillway.

Killed Instantly.

A truck driver, A. Tetro of Los Angeles, who also heard the explosion and saw the crash, rushed to the scene with Cagnacci. All on board the plane apparently had been killed instantly.

Thomas was 38 years old. He started one of the first flying services in the country and was the personal friend of most of America's foremost fliers.

He was president of the Pacific Airmotive corporation, one of the largest flying service companies on the coast, and he had acted as western representative for many national aircraft corporations.

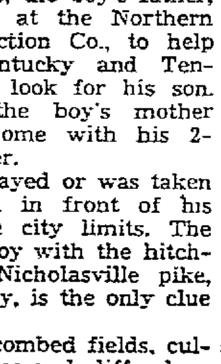
Active in the National Aeronautic association for years, he was a prominent figure each year at the national air races.

Cagnacci said the biplane struck the hillside with such force it was rolled up into a compact mass of steel, wood and fabric.

MRS. ELIZABETH WOODBERRY DIES

Former House Mother on N. U. Campus Passes Away in Illinois.

Mrs. Elizabeth Woodberry, 58, house mother for a number of years at three Greek letter houses on the University of Nebraska campus, died Friday at the home of her mother and sister at Kewanee, Ill., according to word received here Saturday. Mrs. Woodberry left her post as house mother of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority on November 8 because of ill health.



She had been Mrs. Woodberry, ill for a number of years and for several months had been contemplating resignation of her duties. She was enroute to the home of a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Markley at Roanoke, Va., at the time of her death.

Mrs. Woodberry, known as a charming and gracious hostess to many Nebraska classes, first came to the university groups about ten years ago. For a year she was chaperone at the Phi Mu sorority. Later she went to the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity where she remained for more than five years.

Then for a period she did not accept another position and at about the Christmas season of 1933 she went to the Gamma Phi Beta house as chaperon. Her health, however, forced her to resign.

During one year here she was secretary of the chaperon's club at the university. Burial services will be held at Council Bluffs, Ia., her former home, Monday. A number of Lincoln people are expected to attend the rites.

Mrs. Woodberry was the widow of Dr. Herbert Woodbefry of Council Bluffs, who died several years ago. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Markley, who was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta here; a son, Herbert, jr., of Philadelphia; three sisters and her mother.

DR. CRABTREE'S MOTHER DIES IN COUNCIL BLUFFS

Word of the death Saturday morning of Mrs. J. G. Crabtree, 63, at Council Bluffs, was received here shortly after noon by her son Dr. O. J. Crabtree, 2403 Bradfield drive. Dr. and Mrs. Crabtree left immediately for Council Bluffs where funeral arrangements await the arrival of a second son, R. G. Crabtree, of Pontiac, Mich. Surviving also is the husband and two daughters, Mrs. Earl Huber of Council Bluffs and Mrs. Harry Samuelson of Omaha.

DUDSCHUS MADE DEPUTY WARDEN

Deputy State Sheriff Is Given Post at State Penitentiary.

Deputy State Sheriff Otto Dudschus of Grand Island Saturday was named by the board of control to the post of deputy warden of the Nebraska penitentiary, vacant since the promotion several weeks ago of Deputy Warden Dan Kavanaugh to the wardenship succeeding Warden W. T. Fenton, resigned.

Mrs. Nellie G. Benson, chairman of the board of control, said Dudschus will take office December 1 at a salary of $2,000 per year. The deputy warden also is Minnesota from what we can all hear is the best team east of any mountains, and if professional jealousy among their own conference don't stop 'em, they should be in the Rose Bowl New Years, but if they don't, I am pulling for Huey's kindergarten. Suits involved a collision between cars driven by Mr. Murray and Mr. Fulmer near Seventh and South streets, April 15. Mrs. Fulmer, a passenger in her husband's car, sued for $7,500 because of injuries she received and Mr. Fulmer asked $3,500 for loss of his wife's services.

Suit Filed—Andrew G. Jensen has filed suit for damages against the George F. Burt Fruit company in District court. Jensen seeks a judgment for $5,000 in personal injury damages and $65 for damages to his car as a result of a collision which occurred on the Platte river bridge on the Cornhusker highway between Lincoln and Fremont Dec. 4, 1930. A car driven by Jensen and a truck driven by an agent of the fruit company collided.

Refer Salary Request—A request by Charles Wilson, elevator operator at the city hall, for an increase of $15 per month in pay, will be referred by the city council, to L. C. Oberlies, city property custodian, with a request that he supply the council with detailed information regarding city property funds, cost of maintenance compared to other years, and data on pay received by elevator operators elsewhere in the city.

To Attend Conference — The following from Lincoln will attend the state conference of credit bureaus and retail credit managers at Omaha November 18-19-20: G. D. Pegler, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Owens, H. B. Smith, Ether Dale, Chas. D. Hustead, Harry Oxley, J. C. Barber, Otto Skold, F. M. Stephens, Don Cozad, Iva Reisland, Clarence W. Hyland, O. J. Lemon, Mrs. Lulu Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Barger and Mr. and Mrs. Max Meyer.

Appeals Estate Case — Agatha Catherina Lang Saturday appealed to the Supreme court from a Scotts Bluff county District court decision giving Fred Zehner, an adopted son, title to the estate of Ernst Zehner, as an only heir. Fred Zehner, a minor, was born in Belmont, and was adopted legally by Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Zehner, both now deceased, the District court held, denying Miss Lang's contention that the adoption was later voided and that she, a sister of Ernst Zehner, is his only heir.

Corn Stolen—County Commissioner-Elect Clinton J. Mitchell reported to the county sheriff's office that sometime Friday, 24 bushels of corn were stolen from his feed lot.

Judgement Appealed—The Solomon Valley Stage Lines Saturday appealed to the Supreme court a judgment obtained in Lancaster county District court by Lydia Klaus for injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

Planning Roundup—The Lincoln chapter of Manufacturers association representatives started selecting district committees for the annual roundup to be held at the Cornhusker hotel Jan. 24, at their regular meeting held at the chamber of commerce Saturday noon.

Build Machinery Shed—Construction of a stone shed for housing park department machinery has started near the greenhouse in Antelope park. A second will be build in Pioneers park. The city council refused to approve a recommendation by the park advisory board that $500 be taken from the gasoline station surplus, and materials will be purchased with park funds. The old barn at Twenty-ninth and D streets will be wrecked.

Building Sidewalks—Construction of a 4-foot cement sidewalk along the west side of Twentieth street adjoining Irvingdale park is to be started Monday, Commissioner Oberlies said Saturday. It will be about 600 feet long, he said. A sidewalk has been completed across the small triangular tract at the junction of Antelope park drive and A street, west of Antelope creek. It is the last link in a walk along the north side of A street east from the Rock Island tracks to the creek.

Verdict Returned — A District court jury returned a verdict for $25 in favor of Howard Britt, in a case brought against William Byrkit and the Great American Indemnity company, Saturday morning. The damages are assessed against the company. Britt had sued to recover $2,545 from Byrkit and $1,000 from the company, Byrkit's surety, because of alleged incompetent management of properties owned by his wife Fay, at 1341 and 1343 D street while Byrkit was receiver for them.

New Parking Plan—A request by Ben Simon & Sons, that 50 feet of the curb in front of their store be restricted against parking, was referred by the city council to City Attorney Max Kier Saturday. The letter to the council says granting the permit would be a step toward solution of the parking problem. Kier does not believe the proposal is legal. It is the plan to have the space free from parking so that automobiles can stop parallel at the curb, and then be taken to a garage by the owner, or by an employe of the store. When the car is wanted again it will be returned to the store and a small charge made.

Goldfein Boy Hurt — Willard Goldfein, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam W. Goldfein, 1610 Euclid street, suffered an injury to a bone in his right leg and dislocation of two bones in his right foot when struck by a car driven by G. F. McDermand, 1232 South Twenty-Second street, near Nineteenth and Harwood streets, shortly after noon Friday. McDermand took the boy home after the accident and it was first thought Willard was not injured. Later examination, however, revealed the bone injuries. Witnesses told police the boy was going home from Prescott school and ran directly in front of the car which was going west on Harwood street. Willard is being attended at his home by Dr. H. W. Orr.

About People

Mrs. D. G. Kavanaugh and Mrs. eta Barrett attended the funeral of George Roberts at Tecumseh Thursday. George was the son of E. L. Roberts, deputy sheriff of Johnson county. The family lived in Lincoln before moving to Tecumseh.

Fred Winter, Nebraska American Legion commander, and H. H. Dudley, state adjutant, were en route Saturday to Indianapolis to attend the annual convention of state commanders and adjutants.

JAMES ROOSEVELT FINED AS SPEEDER

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 17—(AP)—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president, was fined $10 and costs in District court today, when through his attorney he pleaded nolo to a charge of speeding.

Roosevelt was halted November 4 by state police who said he was driving at a rate of 64 miles an hour while enroute to Manchaster to address a democratic rally. Roosevelt did not appear in court.

Lincoln Not Dull Despite Kansas Trek

Stay - At - Homes Hold Many A Dinner; Homecoming Just Over Horizon.

IN spite of Kansas' popularity today, it's far from uninteresting at home this week-end, and judging from the jottings on the calendar, there will be few dull moments between now and the home-coming parties next Saturday.

This particular day or two, seems to be given over almost entirely to dinners—an informal one here, another one there, and all of them at home.

Next week starts out well, too, with a dinner Monday evening, another one Tuesday evening, and a luncheon in Omaha on Wednesday.

AND NEXT Saturday evening, the Lincoln Country club will have its usual football dinner dance, and Eastridge will also open its doors for the homecoming festivities.

A number of reservations already have been made for the Country club party—Mr. and Mrs. Wardner Scott and Mr. and Mrs. George Sallidin, jr., have planned a party for that evening with the guest list numbering close to fifty.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lau will also preside at a dinner at the Lincoln Country club, and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Gold will be host and hostess at a dinner there, also.

SO MUCH for next Saturday night—Tonight, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Joyce are presiding at a small dinner at home, with bridge, probably the after dinner diversion.

This evening, also, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Raymond have invited a small group of guests for dinner at their home. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond are to preside at another small dinner at their home next Tuesday evening.

IT'S TO BE a dinner Monday evening, too, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Raymond, who have invited only a few guests, and the evening, as well as the dinner, will be most informal.

* * *

TO OMAHA Wednesday will go the Wednesday club, to be luncheon and bridge guests of Mrs. L. B. Lyman.

* * *

UNIVERSITY CIRCLES are getting more or less of a wallop out of seeing Reb Russell in the movies—He is in Lincoln this week in "The Man From Hell."

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT ENTERTAIN CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Scott entertained the Twelve-Twelve club Friday evening at their home, 402 South Twenty-ninth street. High score at cards was made by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Packard. Late in the evening supper was served at the small tables. The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Strawn, 1145 Idylwild drive.

The members of the Pinochle Eight club were entertained Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Piderit, 2857 T street. There were two tables of players and high score was made by Mrs. Harold Essenbeck. Mrs. Henry Becker made second high score, and Mrs. Louis Penterman, low score.

The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Merle Sutton, 323 North Thirteenth street.

BUSY BEE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED AT ROCA

The Busy Bee Extension club met Friday for a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. J. Perkins in Roca. Mrs. Henry Branch, jr., was elected vice-president. The topic, "Food Needs" was discussed by the leaders, Mrs. Floyd Perkins and Mrs. George Burgess. Guests were Mrs. Tom Varney, jr., of Broken Bow, Mrs. Jennie Repka of Lincoln, Mrs. W. S. Eis, Mrs. Ed Krueger, Mrs. Earl Winch, Mrs. John Hartje and Miss Lucille Perkins all of Roca.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA AUXILIARY MEETS.

Twelve members of the Lambda Chi Alpha auxiliary met at the chapter house Friday afternoon, with Mesdames P. K. Slaymaker, A. G. Strause, and Munro Kezer as hostesses. Following the business session, the time was spent informally.

Miss LeRossignol Wed Saturday To Lincoln Frost Jr.

Against a background of green and white in the living room of the family home, Miss Helen LeRossignol, daughter of Dean and Mrs. J. E. LeRossignol, became the bride of Lincoln Frost, jr., of Omaha, son of Judge and Mrs. Lincoln Frost of this city, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Only members of the two families and a few close friends attended the service, which was read by the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Calhoun, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The bridal party was arranged before a bank of greenery, inset with silver candelabra of cathedral tapers and with baskets of white chrysanthemums, and with other baskets of the autumn blossoms on either side.

While the guests were assembling, Mrs. James T. Duncan of Omaha played Chopin's "Nocturne." The processional entered with the Lohengrin music, played by Mrs. Duncan.

The small niece of the bride, Nancy Katherine LeRossignol of Denver, was the flower girl. She was frocked in pink crepe de chine, with a harmonizing hair bow. The little girl carried a basket of rose petals.

Miss Jane Everett, wearing vintage blue velvet and carrying yellow roses, was the bridesmaid. The full skirt fell into a short train and the princess lines were broken only by the rhinestone clasp on the belt marking the waistline. The bodice, slashed in the back, had a slightly cowled motif in the high front neckline. Miss Everett completed her costume with a velvet fuschia turban, finished with a veil of maline in the same shade circling the hat in a flare.

Carl E. Dvorak was the best man.

A powder blue crepe in the costume mode formed a lovely bridal gown for Mrs. Frost. The simple lines of the gown were carried out in the short sleeves and the slight train, and the only ornament was a brilliant buckle at the waist. With her gown, the bride wore a self-material finger tip jacket, designed with mink. The brown of the fur was repeated in her close turban with its smart flare veil and her slippers. Mrs. Frost carried Ophelia roses.

Two hundred guests attended the reception folowing. Mrs. Ross LeRossignol of Denver and Mrs. G. O. Virtue were in charge of the dining room. Mrs. E. A. Burnett and Mrs. Harry Everett presided at the table the first hour, and they were relieved by Mrs. N. Z. Snell and Mrs. J. M. Mayhew. They were assisted by Mrs. J. O. Rodgers, Mrs. Arthur F. Jenness, Mrs. Henry S. Carroll, Miss Winifred Mayhew, Miss Bernice Brenke, Miss Kathryn Grummann of Omaha, Miss Mildred Richardson, and Misses Mary and Katherine Bullock. The wedding motif of green and white was carried out in the dining room, where the wedding cake centered the table and the tapers in their silver sticks and the chrysanthemums were in white.

Alice Pierce and Peggy Ann Kirshman greeted the guests at the door, and they were directed upstairs by Marjorie Martin and Patricia Putney. Mrs. J. E. Kirshman and Mrs. Raymond J. Pool were in the gift room. The guest book was in charge of Mrs. V. L. Hollister and Mrs. Theodore T. Bullock.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Frost will be at home in Omaha.

Guests from out of the city were Mrs. Arthur O. Dawson, Montreal, Can., an aunt of the bride, and her brother, Ross Le Rossignol, Mrs. LeRossignol, and Nancy, of Denver.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and the University of Denver, where she attended the school of library science. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Frost received his degree from the law school at Nebraska, and belongs to Pi Kappa Alpha.

FATHER-SON PROGRAM AT HAWTHORNE COMMUNITY.

Hawthorne school and church held a joint Father-Son program, Friday evening, at the school. The rooms were opened for inspection from 7-7:30 and the program held in the auditorium was announced by J. J. Seright. Rev. G. H. Main gave a talk on, "The Ten Dollar Boy and the Hundred Dollar Boy." Ed Smith gave a chalk talk and community singing was led by Charles Putney. Miss Burmoode and Mr. Carmichael of the recreation board were in charge of the games. Refreshfreshments were served at the close of the program.

RUTH HOLLAND IS SUB-DEB CLUB HOST.

The Sub-Deb club met for a business meeting Friday evening at the home of Miss Ruth Holland, and the following officers were elected. Miss Holland, president, Dorothy Jean Bryan, vice-president, Gail Ferguson, secretary and Jane Allen, treasurer.

HOMECOMING LUNCHEON OF MORTAR BOARD AT Y. W. C. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mapes will have as their guest over the week-end, Mrs. Pauline Rohrs of Omaha. Mrs Rohrs is a nationally known cooking instructor. Mr. and Mrs. Mapes will entertain several guests this evening at a theater party and supper in Mrs. Rohrs honor.

Mrs. Mary Yauney, 2108 Q street, will leave today for Los Angeles where she will spend the Christmas holidays at the home of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Yauney. Mrs. Yauney will be accompanied as far as Grand Island, by her daughter, J. K. Kerr and grand-daughter, Marilyn Louise.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Rolfsmeyer, 2811 Dudley street, announce the birth of a son, Friday at Bryan Memorial hospital. Mrs. Rolfsmeyer was formerly Miss Esther Tracy.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Edward Johnson, 2115 South Thirteenth street, Saturday morning, at Bryan Memorial hospital. Mrs. Johnson was formerly Miss Hazel Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eickenbary, 500 Knox street, are the parents of a daughter, born Saturday morning at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

F.D.R. AT TOMBS JACKSON, POLK

Bachman and Mayor Hilary Howse, of Nashville.

The president passed on into the breakfast room, where a typical Jackson breakfast awaited, piping hot.

Mr. Roosevelt talked freely during the breakfast. He discussed southern cooking, Norris dam and incidents connected with the life of "Old Kentucky."

He drank his customary two cups of coffee and complimented the turkey hash, favorite dish of Andrew Jackson.

As President Roosevelt left the Hermitage to visit the tomb of Andrew Jackson in the garden, he was greeted by lusty cheers. He did not leave his car at the Jackson tomb. He sat with uncovered head as Mrs. Roosevelt placed a wreath.

President Enthusiastic.

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, Nov. 17—(AP)—President Roosevelt continued his tour of the "American Ruhr" today with a smile of boyish enthusiasm as he found eager men at work throughout the Tennessee valley development.

They were carving into reality the project which he envisaged two years ago as a pattern and laboratory for future America.

The president's pleasure was unconcealed as he witnessed thousands of men building dams to work for fellow men, clearing neglected forests to guard against soil erosion, building new homes to replace dilapidated hovels and moving families from unprofitable fields to new opportunities.

Unrestrained cheers greeted him at every turn. Everyone was out. Women with babies in arms, men with implements of work by their side. Those who traveled over this territory two years ago just after election with Mr. Roosevelt could not help but catch the new spirit.

Those intimate with the president sensed the feeling. They were convinced that the roots for better days were evident— for whatever reason—and that the future course of the administration would be to keep the new deal on the present course without much deviation.

Will Visit Wheeler Dam.

Today's route pointed down into Alabama from Nashville, Tenn., first morning stop. Mr. Roosevelt headed for the Wheeler dam under construction on the Tennessee river, another unit in the vast program to harness the waters of the southeast to supply power and navigation.

Thence, the presidential course led to the long-finished and long-unused Wilson dam farther down the Tennessee, erected during the war to furnish power to the Muscle Shoals (Ala.) power and nitrate plant for manufacture of munitions. This plant lay idle until this development.

Late yesterday, with twilight falling over the Norris dam on the Clinch river, another unit of the project, the president spoke of a "new war." After lingering over the edge of this busy site, he told the workers:

"All of you working here at this great dam project and all of the good people throughout the Tennessee valley who are working on the rest of this great program some day will be known as veterans—you will be known as veterans of a new kind of war, the kind of war that is going to improve conditions for millions and millions of our fellow American citizens."

Around Norris dam the president found a new town with houses built to rent for an average of $14.50 a month and with complete electric facilities. Full use of the electric facilities was estimated by federal agents to amount to about $9 a month, including heat and light.

PIONEERS PARK LAKE TO BE FINISHED SOON

The 14-acre lake being built in Pioneers park under the direction of the Lancaster county FERA, will be completed next week, and L. C. Oberlies, head of the park department is making plans to fence it at once. "It will be fenced," he declared, "to prevent the killing of the wild fowl that will nest on the lake." Mr. Oberlies is negotiating with Commissioner Paul W. Doerr, for the purchase of a pump with which to fill the excavation with water from Haines branch.

TAX FOOTINGS.

Kearney county folks are getting off nearly $12,000 easier on their total tax bill for 1934 as compared with the year before the county clerk's report to State Tax Commissioner Smith reveals. While the county levy is $7,500 higher and townships assessed $2,200 more school taxes have been cut over $20,000 and municipal levies are off $2,600. State taxes for Kearney county have been reduced $4,500. The new levy for old age pensions is expected to produce $1,466.50.

In Franklin co nty the taxpayers are less fortunate. They are going to contribute $2,206 more than they did upon 1933 levies, not withstanding a cut of nearly $4,000 in state tax. The county revenue is increased $4,600 school taxes $3,000 and township taxes $7,600, while municipal levies remain approximately the same. The old age pension fund will get $1,021, as estimated.

ARGUE CARLSEN PLEA FOR WRIT

the Nebraska criminal code is past. His points were:

1. When the code doesn't provide an adequate remedy for redress of wrongs common law, of which coram nobis is a part, is in force.
2. When errors on the actual face of the trial record are disclosed, the re-opening of the case is justified.

"The real question is," Perry argued, "whether the court is helpless to grant relief at this stage in redressing a wrong. Here we have an error of fact, not of law, which throws an entirely new light on the case. A recommendation of the court for an immediate pardon is not adequate relief. A pardon may remove the punishment but it can never remove the stain of guilt."

W. H. Wright, assistant attorney general, represented the state and argued against the application for a writ of coram nobis. His main points were:

1. The write of coram nobis doesn't exist in Nebraska.
2. Even if it did exist it could not be invoked, since the statutory time for writs of errors in this case has expired.
3. Even if it could be invoked it would not be justified in this case since it is apparent that Carlsen and his attorneys in the trial were either negligent or deliberately withheld facts.
4. The District court has no jurisdiction in the case until the mandate ordering Carlsen's committment is transmitted.

Litigation Must End.

"The argument that coram nobis can be called into existence in Nebraska is void," Wright declared. "Our criminal and civil codes provide that there must be an end of litigation some time. At the time Nebraska became a state, England—where coram nobis was invoked at a time when the law provided no appeal from errors of fact—had displaced the action through a parliamentary law providing for a writ of error."

Wright cited a number of opinions by state supreme courts wherein it was stated that the writ of coram nobis is "discarded and obsolete and there is no need to dig into musty archives to resurrect an archaic common law procedure no longer deserving of recognition."

The writ of coram nobis, even if it did exist, might supplement but could never supersede a writ of error, Wright contended. Granting of such an application would amount to giving a new trial long after the time for granting it, as provided by law, had expired, he said.

Says Credulity Taxed.

"Now as to McLaughlin's affidavit in which he states that only recently did he have a chance to talk to his son Michael and learn that it was not necessary to give the authority in writing to execute coupons," Wright said, "that taxes my credulity. For McLaughlin's son, Michael, as a member of the law firm of Frank Peterson who defended Carlsen, was in and out of the courtrooms constantly, although not actively associated with the case. There was plenty of opportunity for his father to discuss that point with him. It would appear that there was a certain negligence or withholding of facts extant there."

Judge Broady, who is now studying the briefs submitted by both Perry and Wright in support of their contentions, presided at the trial.

furnished living quarters at the penitentiary and food.

Deputy Warden Dudschus and Mrs. Dudschus and their 4-year-old adopted son will occupy the quarters vacated by the Kavanaughs.

Bryan Is Pleased.

Governor Bryan said he was gratified to learn of Dudschus' appointment and commended the board for its action, declaring, however, 'I don't like to give up Dudschus and lose his services to the state as a deputy state sheriff, but I realize he is particularly suited for the position for which he has been selected."

Dudschus, who is 37 years old, has a record of six years as a deputy state sheriff, both under Governor Bryan and McMullen. He was first appointed a deputy state sheriff by Bryan in 1923, serving until 1926 under McMullen. He resigned to enter the employment of the Union Pacific railroad at Cheyenne, Wyo., later being employed by the Kemmerer Coal Co., of Kemmerer, Wyo.

Reappointed in 1931.

When Governor Bryan began his second term in 1931, he again appointed Dudschus a deputy, which post he has held since.

Prior to entering the service of the state, Dudschus served as a deputy sheriff of Kimball county from 1920 to 1923 and before that he operated a Kimball county wheat farm. Het was born at Silver Creek, Neb.

Garner Falls Out of Tree Trying to Find Texas Hunting Camp

UVALDE, Tex., Nov. 17—(AP)—Vice President John N. Garner returned from a deer hunt today with a ten-point buck, a sprained knee, numerous scratches and told a story of being lost and falling out of a tree while trying to find camp.

"It was the first time in my life that I have become lost while hunting," said Garner, who is probably as familiar as any man with the wilds of southwest Texas.

"The funny part of it was that I was not more than 300 yards from camp."

Heavy clouds had obscured the sun, Garner said, and he could spot no landmarks to guide him, so he climbed a tree to get his bearings. A limb broke and he tumbled ten feet to the ground, landing in the brush.

Criminal Complaint Against Oakland Motorist; Holdup Men Escape After Shooting Victim

TRUCK DRIVER FACING CHARGE

Manslaughter Complaint Against Man In Death of Woman.

BLAIR, Neb., Nov. 17—(AP)—George Jorgensen of Oakland, driver of a livestock truck which struck a truck owned by Harold Norbeck 24, of Oakland, Thursday night near here, killing Miss Lillian Gatewood, 28, of Decatur, was charged with manslaughter in a complaint filed here Friday. Norbeck had stopped his truck to tighten loose lugs and Miss Gatewood, his fiancee, was holding a flashlight, when Jorgensen's machine crashed into the rear of the Norbeck transport.

Lyle Erwin Is Given Five Years Sentence

Omaha Salesman Convicted Of Sending Extortion Letters to Earl May Shenandoah.

OMAHA, Nov. 17—(AP)—Lyle Erwin, Omaha salesman, was sentenced to five years in prison when he appeared before Federal Judge Donahoe today for sentencing on charges of extortion.

Erwin was found guilty early this week by a jury. He was charged with writing and sending letters demanding $6,000 from Earl E. May, Shenandoah, Ia., merchant. Erwin was arrested last June by Federal agents and Iowa state officers. When arrested he was in possession of a dummy package of money planted by the officers.

After Judge Donohoe had pronounced sentence, Erwin told the court he was not guilty of the charge.

Claude Graham, Panama, Dies Of A Rare Malady

(Special to The Star.)

PANAMA, Neb., Nov. 17—Claude G. Gardner, 47, farmer of near here, died last night of a rare and malignant disease of the blood. Dr. S. M. Swartwood of Adams, who cared for Mr. Gardner, said the disease is called leukemia of an aleukemic type, which means that there is a great shortage of red corpuscles in the blood stream.

Mr. Gardner, who had lived in this vicinity practically all of his life, had been ill for several months. He is survived by his wife, Marian a daughter, Norma; a brother, Merle of Crab Orchard; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Gardner of Panama.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon with further services at the Panama Presbyterian church, Rev. P. R. Davies officiating. Interment at Panama. The body is at Broekema's in Hickman.

Highway Bids Total Lower Than Expected

Amount $42,000 Under Estimate Letting Contracts Awaits Return Lobdell, Shoemaker.

Low bids opened by the state highway department Friday on 17 highway construction jobs and one maintenance project totalled $407,737, about $42,000 less than estimated costs. M. B. Jones, state paving engineer, said the bids appeared satisfactory all around, but award of contracts will be deferred pending return of State Engineer A. T. Lobdell and Federal Engineer Clifford Shoemaker from Santa Fe, N. M. probably Monday.

Low bidders not previously announced follow:

Broken Bow-Berwyn Custer county, 4.3 miles grading James E. Tift, Grand Island $20,124; culverts Diamond Engineering Co., $6,328; bridges, Diamond, $7,863.

Exeter-Fairmont Fillmore county 6.1 mile grading A. L. Cook, Ottawa Kas., $15,748; culverts Artificial Stone Co., Bruning, $3,293, bridge, artifical stone, $6,675.

Albion-Spalding Boone county, culverts, artificial stone, $998; bridges artificial stone, $6,210.

Police Are Staying In Budget Allowance

In the report of municipal expenditures for September and October in yesterday's paper, it was erroneously stated that disbursements of the police department were $20,497, against an allowance of $10,450. The latter amount should have read $20,901, giving the department a credit of $404 for the two months. A considerable portion of the savings has been brought about through greater efficiency in the operation of cruiser cars, according to Paul Shively, captain of police.

Sausage Thief at Cortland Also Gets Knife to Slice It

It's no reflection on Mr. Greiser's sausages, but the party or parties who robbed the Ralph Greiser general store at Cortland Friday night, taking, among other things, a quantity of sausage, also took a butcher knife and a steel to sharpen it. Deputy State Sheriff Jarvis Lancaster reported the loot included a quantity of clothing and shoes.

HOWELL CITED FOR OPERATIONS IN GRAIN MART

1931 "Corn Corner" By Former Lincoln Man Basis of Action.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Thomas M. Howell of Chicago was charged today by Secretary Wallace with having gained control of the Chicago corn market to such an extent in the summer of 1931 as to force a fourteen cent rise in prices over a three day period. Howell at one time lived in Lincoln, Neb.

Buying activities were said by the secretary to have widened by July 16, 1931, so as to give Howell and his associates warehouse receipts for all corn in Chicago deliverable on board of trade contracts.

The secretary made the charges in citing Howell, a member of the Chicago board of trade, for alleged violations of the grain futures act.

The secretary charged that Howell and his associates, manipulated the price of corn during the summer of 1931 by purchasing cash corn and July futures and withholding the purchases from the market until the end of the delivery month.

The case was the third that has been initiated under the ten year old law.

Last May proceedings were instituted against Arthur W. Cutten, another Chicago trader, on the same grounds but no decision has come from the Grain Futures commission. Action was also started against the firm of Ettinger and Brand of Cleveland, Ohio, for similar reasons and decision on this case is expected within a few days.

The associates of Howell named in the citation were: his wife and daughter Helen; R. N. Meyer and J. R. Meyer of Chicago, brothers of Mrs. Howell; H. F. Hall, Howell's secretary; Kelley Butler, Arthur De Cordova and Frank Bliss, friends of Howell; J. P. Bickell of Toronto, Canada, and the Barrington company, a Delaware corporation directed and controlled by Howell.

Has No Comment.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(AP)—The name of LaSalle street's "man of mystery," Thomas Montgomery Howell, was written on a government citation for violation of the grain futures act today.

Howell refused to comment upon the citation, a voice answering the telephone in his brokerage office at the foot of LaSalle street remarked, "What about it," and then added, "We have nothing to say."

In 1930 Howell, his operations always cloaked in mystery, was reported in market gossip to have made a million dollars paper profit in the July corn "squeeze." A year later his reported bear operations figured prominently in the senate investigation of the stock market. Testimony at these hearings was that his stock market position was such at one time that it meant a loss or gain of $400,000 each time General Motors fluctuated a point. He was considered essentially a grain trader, however.

Howell at times has been linked with Jesse Livermore, another famous trader who has made and lost fortunes in grain and securities, and with Cutten.

A native of Cedar Rapids, Ia., Howell was educated in Lincoln, Neb., and then he came to Chicago in 1900. He is 53 years old. According to rumor more than 30 years ago he was a telegraph operator in Nebraska.

Bank Receiver Awarded $8,940 Directed Verdict

Federal Judge T. C. Munger late Friday directed a verdict in the sum of $8,940.16 in favor of Forrest Lear, receiver of the failed Norfolk National bank, who was suing Mary S. Kinder of Lincoln on an alleged stock assessment. The suit was for $7,500 and the remainder is for interest at 7 per cent from February 18, 1932.

A defense motion for a directed verdict at the conclusion of the testimony was overruled and Attorney Webb Rice's motion immediately following was upheld by the court on the ground that so long as the evidence showed the stock to be listed as Mrs. Kinder's in the books of the bank, the burden of proof was on the defendant to show that it was not her stock.

When the jury reconvenes Monday morning the war risk insurance suit of Mark S. Martin of Lincoln against the government will be heard. Martin seeks $57.50 a month from September 13, 1918, on the ground that he is totally and permanently disabled from his war service. He contends he lost an arm in the St. Mihiel drive.

6 Face Death For Neglecting Crops

TASHKENT, U. S. S. R., Nov. 17—(AP)—Six cotton farmers were sentenced to death and 20 others given long prison terms today on charges of neglecting and sabotaging cotton crops in Uzbekistan.

The Supreme court of the district is holding seven others for trial in a wholesale shaking up of alleged kulak influence in the central Asian cotton district which the government declares has hindered work on collective farms.

The Turkish Mohammedan population of Uzbekistan has resisted the modernization of agriculture. The men have refused to pick cotton on the ground that it was "women's work."

Accident Is Fatal North Platte Man

Railway Engineer Is Knocked From Top Of Locomotive and His Skull Fractured.

KEARNEY, Neb., Nov. 16—(AP)—George Vosceipka of North Platte, Union Pacific railroad engineer, died here Friday afternoon from injuries suffered that morning when he was knocked from the top of his engine by a sand spout and struck his head against a rail.

He was filling the engine sand dome when the accident occurred. A cable broke and the spout knocked him from the locomotive. His skull was fractured.

Thurston County Vote For Representative Is Being Recounted

PENDER, Neb., Nov. 16—(AP)—The Thurston county election board began Saturday morning to recount the votes for representative in the twenty-third district. After the mail vote was counted and one error of 13 votes was discovered, Byron Murray, Pender, democrat, was found to be behind by only 24 votes, and his petition for a recount was granted Friday. J. W. Reilly of Rosalie, republican, is the leading candidate.

Says Car Accidents Must Be Reported

Declaring that several automobile accidents have occurred in which motorists involved have failed to report the accidents to police, Capt. Paul Shively Saturday asked drivers to notify police headquarters in case of accidents. "The city ordinance requires drivers to report accidents within 24 hours," he said. "We would, however, like to be informed immediately so that accidents can be investigated while the cars are at the scene of the crash. We are making every effort to learn the cause of Lincoln automobile accidents and the best investigation can be made immediately following collisions."

Liquor Raiaders Sweep Through Iowa Capital

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 17—(AP)—Continuing Iowa's drive on liquor violations, city police raided a number of night clubs in a drive which ended early today and resulted in the arrest of about 45 persons, of whom approximately 40 were patrons.

The drive, the second within as many nights, was planned at a joint conference of city, county and school authorities.

In the Thursday night raid none of the patrons of the night clubs were arrested.

The raid last night and early today, authorities said, was based on reports of youths, many of high school age, buying drinks and "spiking" near beer.

EXAMS FOR ALCOHOL TAX DIVISION POSTS CALLED

Civil service examinations will be given in the near future for three posts in the alcohol tax unit of the bureau of internal revenue, according to announcement Saturday by James F. Hallstrom, local civil service secretary. Applications for the posts will be received at Washington until November 27, 1934, and because of the shortness of time, applicants were urged to use air mail facilities.

The chief of the enforcement division is one of the positions open. The salary is $5600 a year and requirements include a good physical condition and five years experience in the last eight in law enforcement work. The applicant must be between 30 and 60 years old.

The assistant supervisor (salary $4,600 to $6,400 a year) and the investigator in charge (salary $3,500 to $4,600 a year) are the other two posts open. Experience of four and three years, respectively, is required and for the supervisor position the age limits are 35 to 60 while the investigator applicants must be between 30 and 50.

NORTH PLATTE MERCHANT SHOT

Grocer Is Seriously Wounded While Resisting Robbers.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Nov. 17—(AP)—Austin Gregg, prominent North Platte grocer, was shot through the left lung and wounded seriously by two holdupmen Friday night.

A clerk said Gregg reached for his own gun just as the robbers fired. The store was robbed just a few weeks ago.

The two men are believed to have joined a companion in an automobile, which was traced to Maxwell, from where it headed east on the Lincoln highway.

North Platte police arrested Paul Wise of North Platte for questioning shortly after the shooting.

L. L. Shields said he saw the men leave the store and drive off. Suspicious of their actions, he drove his own car in pursuit for about two miles.

Haller Recommended To Head Farm Census

Charles M. Haller, 3271 A street, was recommended Saturday by Congressman-elect Henry C. Luckey to be supervisor of the federal farm census in the first congressional district. The appointment will be made before December 1 by W. L. Austin, director of the census bureau of the department of commerce at Washington.

Haller, who is 33, has been connected with farming for a number of years. According to information from Washington his work will take about three months to complete, beginning January 1, and the salary will be about $900. An assistant supervisor will be appointed later along with 126 enumerators for the district. Their work will take about 20 days. All enumerators must live in the district they are assigned to enumerate. More than 500 applications have been received for the jobs in the first district.

John Hendricks, 18, Booked After Crash

John Hendricks, 18, 935 T street, was booked for reckless driving after the car he was driving collided with another machine at Sixteenth and Holdrege streets, Saturday morning. Hendricks was turning east to the Holdrege viaduct when he collided with a westbound car driven by R. W. Ohler, 2703 North Fifty-ninth street, police said. Hendricks said the car he drove belonged to a Nebraska City engineer who hired him to wash the machine. A charge of operating a car without a driver's license was also placed against Hendricks. Both cars were damaged.

Fifty Filings Under Frazier-Lemke Bill

The total of bankruptcy filings by farmers under the Frazier-Lemke bill in the Lincoln division grew to 50 Saturday morning with the filing in Federal court of petitions by William L. Dewey of Liberty and Hillert A. Hillers of Table Rock.

Dewey lists liabilities of $18,484.79 and assets of $11,081 while Hillers shows liabilities of $9,551.49 and assets of $5,605 of which he claims $2,447.50 as exempt.

Federal Deficit Is $1,232,000,000

U. S. Spent $2,603,000,000 In 5½ Months Of Fiscal Year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—At a rate unexcelled since war time, the government spent $2,603,977,000 in the first five and one-half months of the current fiscal year which started on July 1.

This was almost a billion dollars more than the expenditure between July 1 and November 15, 1933, of $1,671,051,000.

So far during the 1934 fiscal period, federal spending has increased each month.

The current deficit is more than double that of last year. On November 15 it stood at $1,232,492,245, compared with $594,680,629 in 1933.

Emergency outlays have taken $1,314,946,000, or more than the amount of the deficit, against $1,289,030,000 for routine governmental expenses.

Receipts for the fiscal year to date stand at $1,371,485,000 compared with $1,076,270,000 last year. With the exception of customs receipts which have declined, other revenue sources are providing more cash than a year ago.

Huey's Dictatorship In Louisiana is Increased

Kingfish Arranges So He Can Run for Re-election in 1936 or Make Presidential Bid.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 17—(AP)—Armed with a new set of laws he wrote to increase his power over state affairs, and his popularity to maintain that power, U. S. Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana's political dictator, took the day off today to see the Louisiana State-University of Mississippi football game at Jackson, Miss.

He left yesterday at the close of the five-day special session of the legislature that passed 44 bills at his bidding with hardly a ripple of opposition.

The most radical of Long's new laws provides for a two-year moratorium on private and public debts except those owed to the city, state or federal government. It provides that hard-pressed debtors may take their cases to a "state debt commissioner" with power to grant suspension of payment.

Another law places all public utilities, including those now regulated by municipalities, under the Louisiana public service commission, which is empowered to fix electric, gas and water rates throughout the state.

He arranged it so he could run for re-election in 1936 and still make his bid for the presidential nomination if the spirit moved him, by having a law passed advancing the congressional primaries from September to January. Without the law, he would have to choose one or the other.

Turkey Prices Bring Smiles To Nebraskans

Here's the reason: they are receiving 18 cents per pound as the initial installment on the birds, compared with 15 cents last year.

Seven carloads were loaded out from Torrington, Lusk and Wheatland, in Wyoming, and at Gering, Kimball, Sidney and Bridgeport in Nebraska.

It was said that farmers will receive from four to six cents per pound more for turkeys this year than last, and that the quality is higher.

To Donate Building For Junior College

Mother of Cecil McMillen To Have Memorial Structure Erected at McCook

M'COOK, Neb., Nov. 17—(AP)—McCook's junior college is to have a building, adequate for needs of its present enrollment, as a memorial to the late Cecil R. McMillen. His mother, Mrs. Maude McMillen announced she would have the structure built next spring.

She said she already has considered plans for the building and has in mind the general type of structure. Ground for the memorial has not been selected yet. These details will be worked out in the next few months and work probably will start in the spring so the building will be ready for the opening of college next fall.

Cecil McMillen died in March of this year in Omaha, where he had gone for treatment of a chronic illness.

At present the junior college's classes are handled at the Y. M. C. A. and at the high school.

200 REPORTED DEAD IN STORM

Philippine Message of Death Toll From Typhoon Unconfirmed.

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 17—(AP)—Two hundred persons were reported killed in the town of Mauban by Thursday's typhoon in an unconfirmed report to the American Red Cross here today.

More than 30 others were known to be dead in scattered points throughout southeastern Luzon island, on which Manila is situated.

A later message from the province said, "other towns suffered heavy damage."

Charles H. Foster, executive secretary of the Red Cross here, pointed out the Mauban report lacked confirmation and may have been exaggerated.

A party of 33 Red Cross and other relief workers sailed this afternoon for the southeastern sector of the island where the storm caused the greatest damage.

They carried food, medicine and supplies needed by the affected districts which reported more than 20,000 homeless.

THE BECKONING MARKET.

A contributor to the People's Forum department in a recent issue of the Star called attention to the crying need for repair and renovation of Nebraska homes. He was confident there was enough work on the farms and in the cities to provide a tremendous market for materials, and to furnish opportunities for unemployed labor such as has not existed since 1929.

And drawing his conclusion from the facts prevailing in Nebraska, he suggests the housing program, coupled with other building requirements, would keep factories busy and men at work for the next ten years. Perhaps he is a bit overenthusiastic. But there is no discounting the magnificent possibilities of a concerted campaign within the home. It holds the key to business revival.

Normal increases in population, and the natural depreciation which takes place in wear and tear over a period of five years accentuates the seriousness of the housing situation in this and other states. The building of new homes has been at a standstill practically since midsummer of 1929. Construction activity in this direction reached the lowest point since the '70s. It was but 16 percent of the normal at the height of the depression, and there has been some rebound since then, but it still is far below the normal requirements. Five years represent the life of much classified as household furnishings. Drapes, curtains, rugs, chairs, tables wear out. Walls need repapering, woodwork refinishing, and the interior of the home generally opens up an inviting prospect for a business revival when and if the facilities are provided that people may undertake necessary improvements.

And the same situation exists with reference to the exterior of homes all over this state and other states. More than half of the houses are in need of paint badly. Virtually the same percentage will need reroofing and other repairs within the next twelve months. It is easy to understand why people neglected these matters during the economic stress. The thoughts turned in an entirely different channel. But the mounting volume of bank deposits in Nebraska reveal there is the financial means available for a real renovation of the Nebraska home, when and if the owners make up their minds to take such action.

It is this which will bring the country forward in a more marked degree than any other step which can be taken. Business leaders are beginning to appreciate the tremendous possibilities of the housing program. Today, this country is underbuilt. There are few cities in which the demand for desirable rental property can be met. But the housing program is not restricted solely to new construction. The great job of putting the American home in the condition it should be extends to those already built as well as those projected.

REUNION.

THERE'S a touch of pathos in the reuniting of relatives after years of separation, but Francis Lederer, movie star, probably has received the most pathetic plea of all.

An old man in Prague, Czechoslovakia, wrote to the actor, hailing him as his long-lost son, who was reported missing in the great war. In shaky script, the overjoyed father wrote

"My beloved son God at last has heard my prayers and restored you to me. Never have I been willing to believe that you were dead. I have searched for traces of you in every country in Europe. Just a few hours ago I passed a picture theater and saw on the advertisement your name and picture. I sat through the film like a man in a dream, and though you were dressed like an Eskimo I knew that you are my son."

Fate is often cruel. By a strange coincidence, the old man's son was called Francis. But the actor's father is dead and his mother lives in Germany.

We sort of wish Francis had played up to his role of the fine actor he is and "played like" he was the old man's son.

IT'S UP TO RUSSIA.

IT isn't at all surprising that trade between the United States and Russia has failed to show any phenomenal increase during the year since the latter was accorded dpilomatic recognition. The reason is that Russia hasn't done anything since to carry out its side of the bargain.

Maybe this is because the soviet government lacks the financial resources necessary to buy the goods we have to sell, which its people sorely need. If it is a case of "can't," rather than "don't want to," that is too bad for Russia. She certainly can't expect Uncle Sam to provide the merchandise and also the cash with which to buy them. He isn't in that kind of business any more. He tried it for a long time with other countries, but found it didn't pay.

Our experience with the soviets is a good deal like that of France, Great Britain, and Germany. They thought when they signed treaties with Stalin's regime that it was going to open up a huge new field for their products. But it developed in each instance that before Russia could or would buy she had to be given "credit," and lots of it. That threw a monkeywrench into the whole proceedings. Finally Moscow turned her attention to the United States and got favorable consideration here. But the course of events has been along the same line, and until a radical change takes place in Russia's attitude there isn't likely to be much doing.

International trade must have its basis upon mutual advantage to the participants. When Russia can take our goods and pay for them, we are ready to buy from her the things she has to sell which we don't have. We also expect her to show some decent regard for the debts owing to our citizens. The soviet policy of repudiation is not well regarded by the world at large. Even Germany has done better than Russia in that respect.

There are growing indications Moscow has begun to realize that in order to improve her situation she must modify her policies and practices toward other nations. In other words, if she wants to share in world trade she must do something to hold up her end of it. Americans have learned by experience with high tariffs that no nation can live to itself and prosper. The Russian system of attempting to control trade by governmental fiat has proven equally futile.

THAR'S GOLD IN THEM OCEANS.

NOT for the world, would we deceive you by saying that the next great gold rush will be out in the vast expanses of the Atlantic or Pacific. Nor should you be advised to grab a diving suit and a sieve and expect to get rich over night.

But it is a fact that a nugget the size of a pinhead—half gold and half silver—the first of the precious metals dissolved in the ocean ever to be recovered is the latest feat of American chemistry. The extraction of this tiny nugget from the Atlantic near Wilmington, N. C., has been announced by Dr. Willard H. Dow.

The fact that there is gold and silver in the sea has long been known but the difficulties of extraction were generally considered insurmountable. Assays of various oceans have shown that sea gold is richest in the fjords of Norway, where it runs about two-tenths of one part in a million of water. San Francisco bay is the second richest gold waters and at Wilmington the gold is 2.3 parts in a million.

The first extraction was not commercial. The pinhead nugget was extracted from twelve tons of water by mixing in colloidal surphur. However, the spectroscope showed from one to three pounds of gold running daily in the waste sea water from the Dow plant and about six pounds of silver daily.

GERMANY'S COMMAND.

GERMANY'S determination to "hoe her own row" has again been demonstrated by a government order for coal operators to produce gasoline even though it costs four times the world price.

Just where they are going to get the gasoline no one knows. There was a frantic effort to discover oil deposits in Germany and each attempt was hailed with enthusiasm. But thus far these have come to naught.

Germany is in a desperate fight for self-sufficiency in all lines of commodities that she has to import. She wants to conserve her dwindling foreign exchange and develop her own industries against future uncertainty. It would be a serious blow to American oil interests if Germany were lucky enough to discover some synthetic oil production process for she imports large quantities of oil.

The reich has told the German mining industry to raise a common fund to perfect experiments under way. Ruhr coal operators and the dye trust tried earlier this year to obtain a government guarantee to enable them to complete the experiments, but without success. Now, however, the funds have been provided and the experimentors anticipate success for distilling gasoline from coal.

On the face of this government command it would appear that Germany will stop at nothing to make herself secure commercially. But when any nation seeks to become independent of the rest of the world it will soon find itself isolated. World trade is simply an application on a large scale of the old tradition—you trade with us and we will trade with you. The German nationalism finds its echo in all countries, even here in the United States. Some day it will break down, because world recovery awaits trade between nations.

QUESTION.
Little Rock, Ark.

Is it possible for a man to get rich and at the same time follow the Golden Rule in our present generation?

ANSWER.

The Golden Rule is more simple than easy. Beneath the plainly stated laws of Christ for common life is concealed a demand which exhausts unaided human nature. Yet that rule is obeyed more widely in our generation than in any preceding one. Three million men, not only of different church affiliations, but in some instances with none whatsoever, are pledged to it in the United States alone. One of the reasons for this increase is the marvelous growth of modern society's productive capacities. These enable individuals to accumulate wealth and at the same time to distribute widespread benefits.

Popular song writers and dramatists, successful inventors and manufacturers have no need to resort to extortion. The incalculable multiplication of their customers is their means of acquiring riches. The small margin of profit upon what they sell becomes a veritable gold mine because they sell to the world. Who does not know of the Ford car and the Woolworth stores? Innumerable similar instances of small profits resulting in gigantic returns could be mentioned.

Behind these revolutionary economic changes is the growing conviction that the Golden Rule is only an application of that basic fair dealing for which business would have to get a patent if it did not already possess it. Roguery is the common foe of social competence, of thrift, industry and the general welfare. Those who appear to prosper by practicing it are exceptions to the rule, and in the end they usually receive the penalty of their misconduct. Men ultimately reap what they sow.

QUESTION.
Glens Falls, N. Y.

Have you any confidence in popular judgment? I confess I have not.

ANSWER.

It may at times be crude and vague but when dealing with popular matters popular judgment is very often right. You need to readjust your attitude toward the average man. Depend on it that the world he represents is wiser than the wisest philosopher and more trustworthy than the most reliable counsellor. It is better for the state that its energies should be directed by the free, frank and democratic action of the rank and file than by any dictator however able and devoted.

With great calls sounding, wide doors opening and many adversaries waiting we shall have to go forward as a free and independent electorate with sufficient concentration of purpose to defend the right and abolish the wrong, and know what to do and why we do it. The people of the United States under God are its redeemers, not solitary individuals, however superexcellent. If another Washington or Lincoln is vouchsafed us we shall indeed be fortunate. Yet at that whoever may be their successor, he will be clothed with power to act by the citizenship.

We cannot escape public judgment and its inevitableness is clearly understood by us all. But we can educate and discipline it, suffuse it with genuine morality and make it firm, yet generous, discerning yet kindly. Is it not also true that when our people knew the facts involved in any grave crisis they delivered a just verdict? If you question this read American history. The masses like nothing so well as to have a leader they can follow, upon whom they can depend, who speaks and acts for them. But such sagacious leadership is extraordinarily rare, and where it exists it is sometimes marred by personal idiosyncrasies and ambitions. When this is not so, their loyality to it is incapable of betrayal. I still believe the typical American is as sensible and patriotic as any of his would-be supervisors.

Davenport, Iowa.

It has been said that earthquakes have killed more people at a stroke than have been killed in any other way. Is that true?

ANSWER.

Probably it is. If the great Messina eruption could have been foreseen only half an hour before it happened most of the two hundred thousand people who perished in a few minutes might have been saved. Until quite recently it was generally believed that nature struck without warning. Now that is questioned. The evidence shows that she usually gives some advance notice of coming earthquakes and the last major one in north India is referred to to prove this assertion. The countryside around Bebar where the castastrophe occurred has been steadily rising around the Himalaya mountains near which Bebar is located. These mountains are at once the loftiest and the youngest in the world and they are apparently still growing hence the plains at their feet are being drawn up by their growth. Two years ago this rise was noticed but the unfortunate inhabtiants of that region failed to heed the warning. At last the tension if the surrounding strata broke under the strain, and the break was the earthquake.

Scientists have warned the local tribes that another will very likely occur within the next two years. But in order to make them take precautions, human nature being what it is, one would have to name the day and the hour when the blow will fall, and obviously this cannot be done. It is fairly certain that electrical phenomena attend these upheavals. Flashes of queer light have been observed during really bad quakes, though how they were caused and what they indicated are still a mystery. So far no electrical apparatus has been devised which will indicate that a change in the earth's surface is in the making. But the inventive mind is busy with the problem and further discoveries may be anticipated.

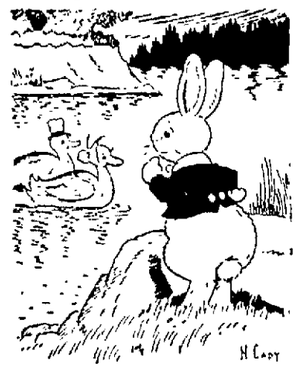
The Quacks Are Suspicious

Suspicion roused is hard to lay,
And friends are often lost that way.
—Old Mother Nature.



"But that couldn't happen here," protested Peter.

Mr. and Mrs. Quack had been in the Smiling Pool several days and already they were looking much better than when they arrived. They found some food there, but more over on the Big River. There they had to watch for gunners, but they had learned at what hours there was the least danger and they stayed only long enough to get the needed food. Then they returned to the Smiling Pool, where no hunter ever came, for this was on Farmer Brown's land and he allowed no hunters there.

"I wish we didn't have to leave here at all," said Mrs. Quack. "If only there was enough food here we wouldn't leave until the coming of ice. It is such a wonderful feeling to feel safe even for a little while."

It was the very next day, on their return from the Big River just after they had settled down in the Smiling Pool, that Mr. Quack discovered in the shallow water what he knew instantly must be corn that had been scattered there while they were away. Instantly he was in the air with a cry of alarm and Mrs. Quack followed.

"What is it, my dear?" she asked as she drew alongside of him. "I didn't see any cause for alarm. Did you see an enemy?"

"No," confessed Mr. Quick. "No, I didn't see an enemy but I saw the thing we have come to dread so because of what happens when we find it; there is corn scattered there. There probably isn't any hunter hiding near now, but now I am always suspicious when I find corn and I thought it best to get away quickly and then look things over. It probably is safe enough there now but we want to make sure."

So they circled high over the Smiling Pool, looking down. They could see no sign of a hunter with a terrible gun and at last warily returned to the Smiling Pool. For a few moments they sat motionless, watchful and suspicious. Then, sure that all was well, they began to pick up that corn greedily.

"My, how good it is," said Mrs. Quack as she prepared to tip up and put her head under water in search for more.

"So it is," agreed Mr. Quack, "but I almost wish it wasn't here."

"Why?" demanded Mrs. Quack.

"Because," replied Mr. Quack, I had been feeling safe here in the Smiling Pool but now I don't."

"Why not?" asked Peter Rabbit, who from the bank had overheard the conversation.

"Because," replied Mr. Quack, "I suspect that it was scattered here by a hunter who will keep scattering it here hoping that we will get so accustomed to finding it that we will forget to be suspicious. Then he will hide near and when we are busy eating he will try to shoot us. We've seen it happen over and over again. They try to make us feel safe and then shoot us."

"But that couldn't happen here," protested Peter.

"Why couldn't it?" asked Mr. Quack and added, "I've seen it happen in place after place that we always before had found safe."

"Because I know who put that corn there. It was Farmer Brown's Boy and he never kills anybody," replied Peter triumphantly.

Mr. Quack shook his head. "You never can tell what these two-legged creatures will do," said he. "I like the corn but I don't like finding it this way. It will be all right for a few days, but after that what?"

"You are too suspicious," declared Peter.

"If we were not suspicious we wouldn't be alive today," retorted Mr. Quack. "It is better to be suspicious of friends than unsuspicious of enemies."

With this he tipped up and began to search the bottom for more corn.

Marian Gordon

by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Lon Casad, Marian's husband, is working for McSwain, a man Marian knows to be a crook. Lon has been put in charge of a job McSwain plans to scamp; worse, Lon is completely under McSwain's influence, and has ignored Marian for days because she has tried to break the spell. Silver Hondon, McSwain's sly daughter, also is in the tangle because she has made no secret of her desire to alienate Lon from Marian. Lon has gone to a "get-together" with "the boys."

Chapter 35.
LON'S RETURN.

Hero whined uneasily, sensing the storm. He chased a wisp of paper and rushed back to her with his trophy, then walked sedately as she returned to the house.

The house was immaculately clean, but Marian went over it thoroughly. The storm broke as she worked and she paused to listen to the music of wind and rain. She had a sketchy lunch; Lon had said they would drive out for dinner on the morrow so there was no shopping to do. Then, with a book, she sought to pass the time.

Slowly the hours passed. When the tick-tock of the mantel clock became unbearable, she went into the bedroom and tried to sleep, dozed fitfully and awakened to find a scant hour had passed.

"I won't depend upon Lon for my happiness," she insisted as she arose. "it's foolish. I'll go into town, visit Anne, go to a theater, visit the office and gossip . . . anything but this . . . this terrible waiting for something to happen."

Hero listened, head to one side. He had understood the word go, now he went to the closet where his leash was kept, and returned with it dangling from his mouth.

"I can't leave you alone, old fellow," she confessed, "and I dread leaving the house for fear Lon might need me. We'll compromise, we'll go for a walk."

They went into the storm, braced against the wind and the rain, ran downhill, panted uphill, returned at twilight breathless and hungry.

Marian built a fire on the hearth, made toast and tea and wheeled it in on the tea wagon. Then, Hero beside her drowsing in the warmth, she nibbled and sipped and read, but really listened and waited for the sound of a motor.

Eight o'clock, nine o'clock, ten o'clock . . . what if Lon had cashed his check and someone, knowing he was to be paid, had jumped his car in the tunnel and . . . oh she was foolish, but supposing on these wet pavements the car had skidded. There were so many dark canyons and with little traffic on a stormy night she wouldn't know until next morning. Maybe at that very moment he was lying under his car . . . she arose, paced restlessly around the room.

"I have to do something," she said aloud. She'd telephone . . . telephone . . . whom could she telephone? Murphy at the gas station, maybe he had an extra car. She would drive into the city, and if she met Lon along the road she would pretend she hadn't seen him and let him wait for her as she had waited for him . . . and as she drove . . . slowly . . . she would look for skid marks on the pavement, and into the canyons.

She called the Walnut Creek exchange and asked for Murphy's Service Station.

"Mr. Murphy," she began, "this is Mrs. Casad, I—"

"I expect you're worried aren't you," he exclaimed solicitously. "I meant to call you but I've been busy as the deuce. I'll bring Mr. Casad home as soon as I close shop—"

"Bring him home," cried Marian. "Is he hurt?"

"No, no, Mrs. Casad, he's just a . . . well, you know how it is, he's been out with the boys and he's a bit under the weather. I'm closing in half an hour. I'll lock your car up in the garage here and bring him along in mine."

Marian turned back to the room, too bewildered to think coherently. Lon was "under the weather." He had been "out with the boys." But that wasn't like Lon. He might be sullen, and willing to misunderstand her, prejudiced by McSwain, but he didn't drink to excess, ever.

Of course there was that night he had come from McSwain's barbecue . . . but he had refused to touch anything since. He'd said, "if I can't take it I won't touch it."

The telephone rang again. Marian hastened to answer. "Mrs. Casad," came Murphy's voice. "I've just been in to see your husband, he's in a pretty bad condition. I'd advise you to call a doctor."

Marian scarcely waited for Mur-.y..amb½Thw.mand...n sh sh s phy to hang up before she was calling the Steeles. Thank goodness, she thought, this is Saturday night and Doctor and Anne will be in.

"Marian speaking," she said when the connection was made. "Doctor Steele, Lon has been drinking. The man at the gas station down the road from here just telephoned and said he would bring him home and I'd better have a doctor here. Will you come?"

"Of course, Ian. Anne and I'll both be there, but that isn't like Lon," he insisted.

"I know," she answered, "please hurry."

A lifetime seemed to pass as Marian stood at the gate waiting for headlights to turn off the highway into their drive. She felt herself turning from girl into woman; every maternal instinct of apprehension, protection, yearning to assume the other's suffering, was awakened.

She would watch the glimmer of light appear on the bushes which lined the highway, see two yellow-white eyes appear, then hear a faraway swish as they passed on towards the city. And then, when she was on the verge of going down the highway on foot, headlights turned left.

She waited for Murphy to stop, jumped on the running board and rode to the house. Lon was lying, an inert figure on the back seat of the sedan. Together they carried him in and laid him on the bed, and with Murphy's assistance she loosened his clothing, and covered him.

"So sick, honey," he murmured once as he opened glazed eyes, "so sick."

"Doc's on his way here'," she assured him and lay a cool palm on his moist forehead.

"What happened, Mr. Murphy, do you know?" she asked him, as Lon seemed to lapse back into unconsciousness.

"No: I really don't." he said. "Mr. Casad drove in about eight o'clock with a couple of men. He cashed his pay check and they cashed theirs, all from the Maddern Construction Company they were. Then they drove on.

"About an hour later they came back, and one of the men was driving the car. He asked me if I knew where Casad lived and I told him. He said well he wasn't going to take the 'fall" by taking him home to his wife in that condition and said he'd leave him there in the garage until he sobered up.

"I was busy. Saturday night, you know, and I didn't pay much attention to him. I thought I'd wait and see how he felt at closing time, then bring him up if he wasn't able to drive. After you telephoned, I went in to take a look at him and figured we'd better do something."

He stopped to look at Marian. She was standing at the open window, as though listening, and then he heard the wail of a siren. A moment later they heard the roar of a racing engine, and then the sound of brakes on the driveway outside.

Small Anne appeared, dimpled and dainty in a gingham house frock, and never had Marian been as glad to see anyone. Doctor Steele, black bag in hand, followed. Doctor asked a few questions, Anne a few more, then they busied themselves with Lon. Marian remaining in the background, a white faced, frightened figure.

Doctor Steele barked a few orders and Anne flew to the car to return with a larger bag. "Outside with you, Ian," she said,

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

TREATMENT AT HOME FOR TUBERCULOSIS EFFECTIVE

The earliest treatment prescribed for tuberculosis was probably that of the great English clinician, Sydenham, who advised these people to ride horseback. Today we believe this to be far too strenuous, and do not allow it until the condition is well under control.

Dr Clendening

Afterwards the fear of open air dictated a form of treatment, according to which these patients were kept shut up in air-tight rooms. This, of course, is exactly opposite to the open air theory of the treatment of tuberculosis today. It was in 1847 that George Bodington wrote his essay advocating clean fresh air as the best tonic for a diseased lung.

The climatic treatment of tuberculosis was emphasized greatly, the favorite climate being a warm southern climate such as that of Italy or the southern states of America. We feel now that climate makes very little difference the patient can be treated in any climate. The only advantage in climates is that in bracing or clear climates there are liable to be esablished sanitaria where the regimen necessary to the treatment of tuberculosis can be learned.

Anyone, however, can treat tuberculosis, and he has available the best methods in his own home, no matter what the climate is, provided the essentials of rest, fresh air and good food are the main elements in treatment. Rest is the fundamental thing. It should mean rest in bed for a period of several months, or perhaps a year.

Sunshine, which is valuable in the treatment of tuberculosis of the bones and joints, does not have so favorable an effect upon the tuberculosis of the lungs, and most physicians in sunny climates prefer to keep their patients with tuberculosis out of the sun.

More and more of late years, surgical methods of treating the disease are coming to the fore. These consist in methods of putting the affected lung at rest by injecting air into the pleural cavity, by paralyzing the diaphragm, sometimes by cutting away a portion of the chest wall and allowing the wall to collapse and press the lung in with it. Some remarkable results have been reported from these procedures.

We have gone a long way since the patient with tuberculosis had to fight not only with his own disease, but public opinion and prejudice, nature herself and the ignorance of his physicians.

The public has very largely learned what the medical profession knew long ago—that drugs or medicine are of no value in the treatment of tuberculosis, except to control sypmtoms. It has been a long time since I have heard of anyone who was so deluded as to try to cure tuberculosis with a drug alone. The gold cures and turtle serum cures are things of the past. Nor are there any serums or vaccines which are curative.

The only possible exception to this is the substance known as "tuberculin," which is used by some conservative physicians with wide experience in treating the disease, but they always use other methods of treatment along with the tuberculin, especially the fundamental methods of rest and fresh air and good food.

Three Held For Trial For Alleged Attempt To Kidnap Boy in East

DARIEN, Conn., Nov. 17—Three men arrested during what authorities say was an attempt to kidnap 13-year-old Robert Lewis Westheim must answer to charges of breaking and entering with intent of committing crime.

They were held under bond of $20,000 each for the criminal Superior court in Bridgeport after a quick arraignment last night.

The men, John Collins, 33, and Joseph Borg, 26, of Providence, R. I., and Edward Menard, 33, of Pawtucket, R. I., were seized in a struggle in the palatial home of Gustave W. Westheim, steamship broker, by police who had kept a vigil there since letters received three days ago threatened harm to Westheim's son. A fourth man escaped.

Three other persons were being questioned in Providence. They were Mrs. Lillian Borg, 23, wife of Joseph Borg; David Borg, 18, a brother, and Joseph Favali, 37.

The Westheim boy was brought back to his home last night from New York where he had been kept since the first threats were received.

Justice De Young Dead

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(AP)—Death has ended the long judicial career of Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court.

Justice De Young, who served on the state's highest tribunal for a decade, died late last night of a heart attack suffered Thursday night on a downtown street. He was 59 years old.

The veteran jurist was elected to the high court in 1924 and re-elected without opposition in 1933 for a nine-year term. During his service he wrote many important decisions modernizing court procedure in fighting crime.

Just Folks

VICTOR AND LOSER.

The loser said: "I did my best
And no excuse have I to make.
He never gave me time to rest,
My arms and legs began to ache.
I had him beaten once, I thought,
But back he came to battle on.
And then as toe to toe we fought
I realized my chance had gone.

"Now I remember thinking, he
Is fighting like a man inspired.
No longer he's afraid of me!
I wonder am I growing tired?
If down I go, it's down I'll stay.
He laughs at every blow I hit.
He is the better man today.
And then he struck and ended it!"

The victor said: "To my surprise
He suddenly appeared to tire.
I thought I noticed that his eyes
No longer flashed the old-time fire
He hit me, but I laughed to hide
The fear I didn't want to show.
To him it would have turned the tide.
Had he but struck another blow!"

Today

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 16—Bright sunshine in Pittsburgh today, too much sunshine to please the inhabitants. Brilliant sunshine here means little smoke, little smoke means big plants closed. Pittsburgh's heavy industries are running at only 23 per cent of capacity.

Bring back the good old smoky days, Mr. President, and anybody may have Pittsburgh's share of bright sunshine.

The Mellon institute, not run to make money, does not sell anything. It finds out about things, and tells American industry about them. Soon it will move into a new building as big as the Parthenon that sits on the hill near Athens, an almost exact copy of that building and made to last longer. Its sixty-two columns are solid shafts of limestone from Indiana, each forty-two feet high, weighing one hundred and twenty thousand pounds.

The next stop is at the H. J. Heinz company plant. Its president, Howard Heinz, who is talking to the Chicago Chamber of Commerce today, and according to Andrew W. Mellon is the most active director of the Pennsylvania railroad, has at least fifty-seven varieties of business in addition to the one established by his father in 1869.

In the vast establishment, with forty-three acres of factory floor space, the most interesting things are the house in which the original Heinz started his career and the army of fine young girls that work in the big plant.

There are many fine young men, of course, but what are they in comparison?

The original "factory," a small brick farmhouse, has been moved from its original site, five miles away, and H. J. Heinz, the founder, standing more than life size in bronze, looks through the door of the big modern plant, at the original little house across the way. This country offers opportunity, if you know how to use it, by working.

It cannot be done by mere complaining, or envying. The original Heinz wasted no time envying Cross and Blackwell, across the water. He said only, "I shall beat that English crowd," and he did.

Curb Exchange at Boston Is Closed

BOSTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Boston is without its curb exchange today.

Directors, faced with the reconvening of a federal inquiry as to whether the federal securities act had been or was to be violated, voted yesterday to shut its doors.

At the same time directors acquiesced to an order by the securities and exchange commission that further operation would be considered a violation of the securities act.

The closing decision of the directors of the exchange, which has listed only a few mining and oil stocks since 1929, was placed on the basis that the exchange would withdraw permanently its application for registration as a national securities exchange with the federal government.

Two weeks ago a federal investigation of the exchange began as a hearing on an application of the exchange for continued exemption from registration as a national securities market.

Proposed Settlement Gives 15 Millions to Two Reynolds Children

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 17—(AP)—The proposed division of Smith Reynolds's $25,000,000 share of his father's tobacco fortune, giving $15,000,000 to his two children, has the approval of Libby Holman Reynolds, the young sportsman's widow, who would get $750,000 under the plan.

The plan to settle the contested estate was filed in Forsyth Superior court yesterday by Reynolds' brother and two sisters.

Under the proposal, $6,000,000 would go to Christopher Smith Reynolds, the young sportsman's posthumous child by Miss Holman, and $9,000,000 to Anne Cannon Reynolds, II, daughter by his first wife, Anne Cannon Reynolds.

Except for the $750,000 Libby Holman Reynolds would get, the balance of the estate would be used for benevolent purposes.

No explanation was offered for the unequal division between the two children. The proposed settlement carried no provision for Mrs. Anne Cannon Reynolds-Smith, divorced from Reynolds in 1931.

Utilities Act As Depressing Influence On Stock Market; Most Other Equities Hesitant

Exchange Closing Tone Is Irregular

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—

The long-suffering utilities were the most depressing influence in today's brief session of the stock market. With American telephone and Consolidated Gas dropping to new lows, most other equities were hesitant. There were a few firm exceptions, however. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 450,000 shares.

Telephone, long a leader of the list, lost more than 4 points before mild support appeared. Consolidated Gas, rated with Telephone, fell to its lowest level in 1? years. Selling in both these issues dried up after the first hour and they regained some of their declines.

Liquidation by small stockholders—there were recently 680,939, owners of this issue—were blamed for the continuation of Telephone's weakness. In addition to rumors that the directors might cut the dividend at their meeting next Wednesday, the stock was also affected by the inquiry order of the communications commission an dthe charges of Milo R. Maltbie, chairman of the New York state public service commission, that the company had written up the book value of its state subsidiary by some $4,000,000.

While the majority of other listed stocks weer unable to get any place in particular, brokerage circles were encouraged by the fact that they did not give a great deal of ground. In the face of the utilities bright, several issues were able to hold moderate gains. Aviation stocks, especially, were in demand as hopes for large government purchases were renewed.

Commodities provided little assistance for the equities division, although grains rallied around midday. U. S. government securities displayed a strong undertone, but corporation bonds were mixed. Foreign exchanges were dull.

Shares of Congoleum, Spiegel-May-Stern and United Aircraft got up fractionally to a point to new year's tops. Loew's advanced 1. Steady issues included U. S. Steel preferred, Boeing, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Tobacco B, Bethlehem Steel and Seaboard Oil.

American Telephone finished down more than 3 and Consolidated Gas was off fractionally. Public Service of New Jersey and North American eased to new 1934 lows. Most of the oils were listless, but Standard of California yielded a point. Electric Storage Batteries was down as much notwithstanding the company directors voted an increase in the dividead Such stocks as Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse and Johns-Manville were virtually unchanged.

Chicago Produce.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 17—(AP)—

Butter was unsettled in tone today. Eggs were steady. Turkeys and springs were firm and the balance of poultry steady.

Authorities in the butter trade assert government business has been responsible for the record high prices but some dealers question further government business once current contracts are satisfied. Then, too, production may aggregate somewhat larger supplies than anticipated. The answer to the shortage in storage supplies is found in the fact that last year the government purchased 70,000,000 pounds. This year purchases have not accumulated and there is little government butter in storage.

Dividends

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—Standard Oil Co. of Kentucky has declared an extra dividend of 50 cents on the capital stock out of accumulated earnings for prior years, along with regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable December 15 to stock of record November 30.

Electric Storage Battery Co. ordered final dividends of 75 cents each on the common and preferred stocks for 1934, payable January 1 to stock of record December 10. The disbursements bring the total for the year on each class of stock to $2.25 against $2 00 in 1933.

National Transit Co. declared a semi-annual dividend of 35 cents on the capital stock, payable December 15 to stock of record November 30. The previous payment was 40 cents in June.

Lehigh Portland Cement Co declared a dividend of 87½ cents on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, payable January 2 to stock of record December 14. Similar payments were made in previous quarters.

Directors of Wright Hargreaves Mines Co. have declared the usual extra dividend 5 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend dividend of 10 cents, both payable in Canadian funds on January 2 to stock of record December 10.

NEW YORK, Nov 17—(AP)—Consolidated Film Industries Inc. ordered a dividend of 50 cents on the preferred stock, on account of accumulations, to be paid January 2 to stock of record December 10.

Bayuk Cigars Inc. declared a dividend of $1 on the common stock, payable December 15 to stock of record November 30. This is the first cash disbursement since Jan. 15, 1932. A 4 per cent stock dividend was paid last June.

Chicago Wheat Closes Uneven

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 17—(AP)—

Belief that this season might prove to be the first time ever met with that there was no big after-harvest movement of corn gave all grain prices a new hoist today.

In the late dealings, December corn outdid the season's previous peak quotations. July corn, though, lost ground owing to surmises that July contracts would ultimately feel the bearish effect wheat harvest operations southwest starting around the end of June.

Wheat closed uneven, ⅜ cent off to ¾ cent up compared with yesterday's finish, May 99½@⅝c. Corn at ¾ cent decline to ¾ cent advance, May 84⅝@¾c. Oats unchanged to ⅜ cent higher, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to an equal gain.

Persistent weakness of foreign wheat markets led to early downturns of Chicago grain prices today. There were also rains in domestic wheat territory southwest and northwest as well. Opening ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower, May 99⅛@¼c, wheat afterward sagged further. Corn started unchanged to ¾ cent down, May 83¾@⅞c, and subsequently altered little.

Cables told of cheaper offerings of wheat from France to other European countries. Word was likewise received that Argentina was also offering wheat at lower prices. Quick rallies here, however, to prices well above yesterday's finish followed an official announcement that grasshopper damage to wheat in southern Australia is serious and that in western Australia damage from drouth and rust is also serious.

Helping an upward trend of wheat at this stage was a corn market rise that lifted December corn to equal with the season's top prive record and to more than 1 cent above today's early low level. Strengthening of corn quotations was associated with the fact that only one car of corn was bought overnight to arrive in Chicago, although the price of cash corn here yesterday was at a new high for the season. Notice was taken that on the basis of the nominal current premium No. 2 white corn would sell here within a few cents of the dollar mark. Oats were responsive to upturns in corn and wheat.

Provisions reflected setbacks of hog values.

About mid-session, wheat was ¼ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher compared with yesterday's finish, and corn was ⅛ to ⅝ cent up.

Corn receipts in Chicago today were 34 cars, a week ago 87, and a year ago 379.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—

The curb market drifted lower today in quiet trading that was mostly in the way of adjusting accounts for the week-end. Utilities continued under pressure and oils were sold rather freely at the start of trading but steadied during the second hour. Merchandising shares showed some resistance.

A heavy turnover in Electric Bond & Share reflected shifting speculative sentiment in the utility issues apparently brought about by developments of the past few days affecting the industry as a whole. At one time the stock was well supported but finally yielded around ½ point below 8, a new low for the year. Other utilities selling fractionally lower included American Gas, Niagara Hudson and Cities Service. Montreal Light, Heat & Power de clined around 3 points.

Oil issues were moderately lower, although the turnover was not large except in International Petroleum which declined ½ to below 31. Gulf Oil yielded a full point and Creole Petroleum sold slightly lower A long list of miscellaneous shares sold fractions to around a point lower, including Hiram Walker, Parker Rust Proof, Newmont Mining and Swift International.

Lerner Stores, Pan-American Airways and Sherwin Williams were among other issues selling slightly lower.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—

The bond market today was chiefly notable for a display of moderate strength in U. S. governments and an irregular heavy tone in the corporate department.

Among the best supported of the federal loans were Home Owners Loan 2¾ which moved up 9-32nds of a point to a new high at 96.6; Home Owners Loan 4s, up 9-32nds at 99.4; Federal Farm Mortgage 3s, up 11-32nds at 99.4; Treasury 3s, up 8-32nds at 100.13, and Treasury 3⅛s of 1944-46 up 8-32nds at 102.

A few industrial liens were traded at slightly higher prices, but the major trend was downward, even in a considerable number of prime issues. American Telephone 5s sold off ⅞ of a point to 110 in response apparently to another sharp drop in the stock.

Moderate selling forced Great Northern 4½s down a point to 70½, and a like loss reduced Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977, series F to 27⅞. Smaller declines occurred in the loans of Baltimore & Ohio, Columbia Gas & Electric, Nickel Plate, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, New York Central and United Drug.

Slightly higher prices were paid for obligations of Detroit Edison, Duquesne Light, International Telephone, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Armour & Co.

Argentine, German and Japanese issues lost a little ground while other foreign groups held about steady.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, Nov 17—(AP)—Prospects of a serious shortage of corn in the leading producing areas as a result of heavy buying of the grain for feeding purposes in the southwest, where crops were ruined by the drouth, lifted corn to a new high quotation of 84⅞ cents a bushel for the year on the local market yesterday. Buyers from the southwest have been drawing on the available supplies in Iowa and Illinois by offering more for the grain than the terminal market prices. The situation has caused some traders to express concern over a possible corn shortage in the two states.

Indications that Argentine corn may be imported to this country next spring to help in filling domestic requirements were brought to the attention of the trade through the reported purchase by a Chicago firm of a cargo of the Argentine grain. The corn was reportedly hedged in the July future. However, traders do not look for any material importations before the Argentine crop is harvested next spring.

With speculative activity centered on the corn market, recent sales of wheat against purchases of corn or other grains have caused wheat prices to jump sharply upward whenever traders cover their commitments. Bullish sentiment in the local wheat market has been checked by the failure of the Buenos Aires and Liverpool markets to show reaction to crop reports from Australia and Argentina.

Mattingly Estate Litigation Closed

The Nebraska Supreme court Saturday rejected a plea for a second rehearing of a lawsuit over the estate of George W. Mattingly, former negro slave, whose death in Butler county several years ago resulted in prolonged litigation over his will. When he died he left an estate variously estimated at more than $80,000, which since has dwindled, attorneys say, to a few thousands.

Trainer Ruled Out On Charge Doping Horse

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(INS)—Before Nov. 26, S. B. Ott, trainer for the French Lick stables, must show cause why he should not be ruled off the turf forever on a charge of doping a horse during the recent meeting at Sportsman's Park.

Otherwise, the suspension voted by the Illinois racing commission will be allowed to stand, it was announced today.

Traces of a morphine derivative were found when tests were made on the horse Sherron, owned by the French Lick stables, the commission charged. The tests were made at Sportsman's Park Oct. 23 and Oct. 29.

Johnny Grinnell is an end at Tufts, but he calls the signals and does all his team's punting.

Seven Killed as Two Cars Crash

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 17—(INS)—Miss Dorothy Rudy, 21, of State College, Pa., fought for her life in a hospital today following an automobile crash that took the lives of seven persons, four men and three women.

The dead:

Emanuel Perkins, University of Pittsburgh law student.

James Saniel 25, Pittsburgh attorney.

Hyman Graver 26, University of Pittsburgh law student.

Irvin M. Musser, 75, State College, Pa.

Mrs. Irvin M. Musser, his wife.

Miss Ruth Jackson, North Girard Pa.

Miss Elinor Webster, 20, North Girard.

Perkins, Saniel and Graver were said to have been driving to State College to attend the Lafayette-Penn State football game, when their machine collided with that of Musser.

The two cars crashed, rolled over and burst into flames. All occupants of the machines, with the exception of Miss Rudy, were trapped inside.

FIGHTERS CLASH IN DREARY BOUT

Olin Wins Verdict Over Rosenbloom; Cash Patrons Yawn.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—Meet the new champion of the light-heavyweights, Bob Olin, a product of Brooklyn preliminaries, more recently of the Golden Gloves tournament and now first citizen of the 175-pound division.

Olin, known in fistic circles as "The Plodder," stumbled through 15 drab, dreary and at times, sad, rounds with Maxie Slapsey Rosenbloom at Madison Square Garden last night and by dint of his willingness to do most of what little fighting the evening produced, he emerged with the decision, the title and whatever cash and glory that goes with it.

It was one of those "moral victories" which, in the past have been confined almost strictly to football.

Maxie Wouldn't, Olin Couldn't.

The consensus was that Rosenbloom, as usual, wouldn't fight and that Olin couldn't. But the youngster was game and willing. He tried to force the milling, and if Rosenbloom wouldn't co-operate, that wasn't his fault, all of which the judges took into consideration in rewarding him with a unanimous decision—a rare happening in Madison Square Garden these days.

Rosenbloom looked like anything but the furious mixer that has ruled the light-heavy roost for the past four years. He was slow afoot, his stamina had deserted him and, forbidden to use the slapping blows that have made him famous, seemed helpless in throwing punches. Not more than half a dozen good licks were landed all night. Olin got in most of those.

Champion's Wasted Rally.

Towards the end, the champion appeared to realize his long reign was nearing an end, for he cut loose with a vicious back to the wall attack in the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds—the only heats to go into his column since the first, when Olin landed a low blow as they were coming out of a clinch and had the round awarded to Rosenbloom.

There were no knockdowns and the only damage done either fighter was a slight cut on Olin's nose, produced by one of Rosenbloom's smacks.

It was such a disappointing exhibition from the first bell on that Olin's manager said, as the boys went into the fourteenth round:

"For God's sake fight. It's so bad it's not even funny."

Less than 8,000 customers turned out for the poorest title fight New York has seen in years. Many of these departed long before the finish.

Western Maryland college has a drum major, Frank Brown, who is a transfer from Ohio State and had some experience with the Buckeye band. Western Maryland can't play transfer students on the team but they're eligible for the band.

BUSINESS CHIEFS WILL GET BEHIND HOUSING DRIVE

Believe It Will Spur Employment and Keep Congress in Tow.

WANT NEXT YEAR'S DEFICIT HELD DOWN

Co-operation With Administration is Called Wisest Course.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Silas H. Strawn, erstwhile critic of the Roosevelt administration, was chosen today by the chamber of commerce of the United States to head a committee to co-operate with other business groups in drawing up a national recovery program for congress.

Strawn, former chamber president, has been generally accepted as the leader of the chamber's Roosevelt foes, but he was said authoritatively to have accepted now the necessity of co-operating with the administration. His appointment to head the committee was described authoritatively as evidence of the strength of the chamber's intention and to demonstrate the unanimity of the chamber's move — because the liberals urged him to take the job.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Big business leaders gave every indication today of putting their full force behind the housing drive as a means of hurrying recovery, striking a blow at unemployment and thus preventing congress from plunging far to the "left."

This, an authoritative source disclosed, probably will be a chief plank in the recovery platform which spokesmen of the chamber of commerce of the United States and other organizations will present to the white house.

The decision to draw up this program, a momentous step in the new movement for co-operation between business and the white house, was ratified by the chamber's directors yesterday.

A special committee of the chamber, in urging that the deficit next year be held down to at least "a tolerable limit," frowned on large-scale suggestions for new public works, such as Secretary Ickes has hinted.

Strive for United Front.

In striving for a united front to urge the business viewpoint on the president, the chamber's directors adopted a resolution declaring there is "evidence of a growing determination by business, industry and agriculture to co-operate in every possible manner to promote an improvement in recovery from our existing economic condition.

"Utterances by the president himself encouraged the belief that he is fully conscious of this attitude and that he is receptive of suggestions for the promotion of the common welfare."

A committee will be named by Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber, to co-operate with other organizations, including agricultural bodies, to draw up the program. Special stress will be laid on getting the durable industries to function.

Wisest Course.

One man prominent in business circles expressed the opinion that, especially since the election, more and more business men are coming to take a realistic attitude toward the administration. He said the Roosevelt administration is "in" for six years more, regardless of the likes or dislikes of business men, and that the wisest course is to co-operate with the white house.

With President Roosevelt away, there was no immediate comment in government circles on the chamber board's suggestions that emergency spending next year be limited so that the difference between expenditures and receipts may be covered by the treasury's cash balance and repayments to government lending agencies.

BOWLING

GREATER LINCOLN LEAGUE.

Three of the six Greater Lincoln league quintets recorded scores of better than 2,900 at the Lincoln Parlors Friday night Goetz setting the pace with 2,962. Liberty Life notched the high single game with 1,047, while Macoy was high individual with a series of 651 and a single game of 246. Liberty Life and Goetz won two of three from Gridiron Club and Falstaff, while Eggers & O'Flyng lost three to Brown's Colts.

Thanksgiving Dinner Will Cost 10 To 12 Per Cent More This Year

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(AP)—In eating your Thanksgiving dinner be thankful for the celery and sweet potatoes—hey're about the only items in a menu ranging from soup to nuts which haven't gone up in price.

The entire dinner will cost from 10 to 12 per cent more than a year ago, a survey of markets showed today. Primarily responsible are the increased cost of labor and last summer's drouth.

The national turkey population is estimated by grocery houses at about 30 per cent less than last Thanksgiving.

Turkeys last year retailed around 23 cents a pound here, and this year the housewife can expect to pay from 29 to 33 cents. A 1-cent a pound increase can be expected Thanksgiving week. The birds are not as hefty this year, averaging 22 pounds, nor are they as good quality.

Geese are very scarce and have jumped in retail price from 14 to 15 cents to 21 and 22 cents a pound. Duck will cost from 23 to 25 cents a pound, an increase of 6 to 7 cents. Chickens are up 10 per cent, and roast beef about as much.

Cranberries have almost doubled. Any foodstuffs canned or bottled are up from 8 to 10 per cent. Tins, labels and wages are higher in addition to the costof raw foods to canneries. Mince-meat listed last year at 12½ cents a pound now retails for 14 cents.

Irish potatoes, however, at 3½ cents a pound showed only an increase of ½ cent. Cheeses are about the same price as last year, and so are coffees and teas. Olives are but little higher, and nuts, except some imported varieties, are about the same.

And good news for the youngsters: Candy is but little, if any, higher.

$6,460 SPENT FOR SIMMONS

Cochran's Expenditures Total $825, Workers Getting Big Part.

Slightly over $6,500 was received and nearly all of it paid out during the recent campaign by the organization promoting the candidacy of Robert G. Simmons, republican nominee, for United States senator, as shown in an itemized list of the receipts and disbursements filed with the secretary of state.

In the total of $6,517 taken in by Simmons bureau art two contributions of $1,000 each from the republican national committee. Among the large individual contributors were: Paul T. Babson, Boston, $100; George W. Holmes, Clark Jeary, J. W. Kinsinger, and Erle Campbell, Lincoln, each $100; C. A. McCloud, York, $100; and Jack Matthews of Lincoln, for himself and others, $117.

State Committee Bills.

The organization donated $450 to the republican state committee in one installment and paid numerous bills incurred in conjunction with the committee for work done in behalf of Simmons. Other large items of expenditure were: Nebraska press association, advertising in newspapers, $716; George Bros., buttons, $401; to Douglas county committee, $250; Senator Borah's speech, $150. Considerable amounts were paid out for advertising in daily papers, printing, postage, salaries and wages, and miscellaneous bills.

The total expenditures came to $6,400, leaving a balance of $57 on hand.

Cochran Spends $850.

Contributions in amounts of $25 or more received and disbursed in Governor-elect Roy L. Cochran's campaign for election reached the total of $825, according to the report filed Saturday. Of that sum, $575 was paid to 45 persons who put in time working for Cochran, and $250 went to the democratic state committee.

C F McLaughlin, elected as democratic congressman in the second district was helped by a $1 000 donation from the national democratic congressional committee. The largest individual contribution to his campaign was $250 by J H Hanley of Omaha. Other gifts ranged from $1 to $150 each from numerous persons

Included among the expenses of the McLaughlin campaign were items of $797 for advertising $1,130 for political literature and $1 009 for pay of workers. A deficit of about $800 remained after election

J. A Brunt of Fairbury, defeated for supreme judge in the fourth district, reports having spent $130 in his quest of that office

Burke Spent $5,400.

OMAHA, Nov. 1—(AP)—Edward R. Burke spent $5,400 in his successful campaign for election to the United States senate, $4,500 of which was in contributions, according to a report mailed late yesterday to the secretary of state. A deficit of about $800 was reported. Listed among the larger contributors were the national democratic committee, $1,000; James Hanley, $229; Pete Peterson, $150; and Mrs. Evelyn Ryan, Grand Island, Cushing Brothers of Hastings, Harry Hall of Maywood, and J. N. Norton, Charles Knowles and Homer Gruenther of Omaha, $100 each.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

The hydra, or fresh water polyp, is far down on the scale of animal life, being one of the simplest forms of multi-celled animals. It grows to be about a quarter of an inch long and about as big around as the lead in an automatic pencil. It has a single disk-shaped foot by which it clings to sticks or stones, and at the other end of its elongated body there is a cluster of tentacles at the center of which is the mouth.

The hydra has the strange power to live and grow when it has been cut into several pieces, each piece developing into a new and complete hydra. It multiplies in three different manners, by division as cited above, or by the budding process, or from simple eggs. In budding, a new hydra grows out from the parent like a branch on a tree.

To demonstrate the hydra's hardiness and its ability to grow new organs, Abraham Trembley, Swiss naturalist of more than 100 years ago, turned one of the tiny animals inside out. The hydra kept right on eating and living, utilizing a new set of digestive organs which it grew in its new inside.

Beginning when he was 19 years old, David D Cohee, late Boone county, Indiana, resident, kept a day-by-day record of his life and activities, of the weather, and of incidents in the lives of his friends. When he died at 80 years he had 62 volumes of the diary, each with a year in it. The strange diary has proven to be a valuable history of Cohee and his friends, and has been consulted several times by attorneys seeking data on forgotten family history half a century old.

cheerfully, "and don't let your eyes pop out so, or they'll fall off and then what'll you do? Your Lonny's going to be all right."

"Are you sure" insisted Marian.

"Have I ever lied to you?" countered Anne. "Here," delving into her pocket and bringing out a packet, "go out in the front yard and see how many of these you can smoke before I call you."

Marian slipped into a coat, leaving Murphy to help the others if he was needed and, with Hero, she paced back and forth, back and forth. And then, "Ian," called Anne.

Marian sped back.

"Whoa," called Anne as she passed, "the lad's sleeping, let him rest. What's the chance of a cup of coffee for a couple of hard working medics?"

"Of . . . of course," said Marian. "You mean he's all all right He isn't suffering?"

"Not a bit," said Doctor Steele.

The coffee consumed, Doctor Steele turned to Marian.

"Lon wasn't drunk," he said. "He was poisoned."

Ruling Holds Legal Costs May Be Paid From Estate Taxes

That county treasurers may legally pay fees of appraisers and witnesses out of inheritance taxes received from estate beneficiaries, but probably are not entitled to retain fees for their own office, is the ruling of the attorney general's office in reply to an inquiry from Treasurer August Kroll of Jefferson county.

State Auditor Price, through whom the inquiry was propounded, will send a copy of the legal department's opinion to all county treasurers in Nebraska.

The question arose when Allen Williams, one of the field auditors for the federal emergency relief organization of Nebraska, objected to the allowance and payment of any fees out of inheritance tax collections, all of which, he insisted, should be devoted to relief purposes under a special act passed by the 1933 legislature.

However, the act referred to did not repeal or amend a section of the 1929 statutes which specifically says that witnesses in estate matters shall be paid $2 a day and that appraisers named to value property of an estate shall receive compensation and mileage for their services, out of the inheritance tax money coming into the county treasurer's hands.

While holding these fees payable, the attorney general's office sees no reason for the county treasurer charging any fee on his own account. In Lancaster county, says the opinion, this is not done. In any event, the treasurer's fees would have to be turned into the county general fund and the net result would be merely to transfer money from relief to miscellaneous purposes.

October Gasoline Tax Collections Show Gain; Beer Tax Also Ahead

Nebraska's gasoline tax collections for October show a gain of $146,000 over the same month a year ago and a substantial increase over last September, W. H. McGaffin, assistant director of agriculture, reported Saturday.

Collections so far this month for October are $757,762 compared with $720,620 in September and $611,707 for October last year. Total collections may run near the $800,000 mark, McGaffin said.

Beer tax collections for October held to the fall decline, but are far ahead of the same month a year ago. Collections to date for October are $21,172 against $26,526 for September and only $13,447 for October last year.

Total beer revenue paid the state since 3.2 per cent brew was legalized 15 months ago is $313,224, McGaffin said.

M'Millin Tells Of Religion On Campus

"Discussing "Religious Work on the University Campus," Rev. L. W. McMillin, of University Episcopal church, told Lincoln members of the Interprofessional Institute at their regular meeting at the Lincoln hotel Saturday noon that "religion is life."

In describing the activities of the Council of Religious Education, Rev. McMillin said "What we are trying to develop on the campus, all religions included, is a moral and manly life. It is not a matter of creed, Bible, prayer book or doctrine, but religion is life and should be linked up with life. It is only developed through a gradual growth, which can only be possible with proper environment."

53 NEWSPAPERMEN AT NEWARK STRIKE

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 17—(INS)—Fifty-three employes of the editorial department of the Newark Ledger, morning tabloid, went on strike today, demanding reinstatement of eight other employes who were discharged Wednesday.

The strikers are members of the Newspaper Guild, an organization of editorial workers. L. T. Russell, publisher of the Ledger, said the eight employes had been discharged for "reasons of economy." A notice posted on the bulletin board said there were to be other dismissals for the same reason.

THREAT ENJOIN ASHLAND WORK

Labor Union May Invoke Court Action Force Use Lincoln Men.

A threat to enjoin construction of the Lincoln municipal filtration plant at Ashland unless the contractor agrees to employe Lincoln labor exclusively was made Saturday morning by the Lincoln Central Labor union.

Ernest Bock, secretary of the central union, issued a statement announcing that at a meeting Friday night the central union adopted a motion that "if a settlement was not secured at an early date the central labor union finance the effort to enjoin further work on the project until such time as the contract between the contractor and city be complied with and Lincoln labor exclusively employed on the project."

Officials of the central union for some time have sought government assistance to compel employment of none but Lincoln labor on the Ashland filtration project, which is being constructed by proceeds from a municipal bond issue together with a PWA grant.

John Latenser, jr., state PWA engineer, this week informed labor representatives that Saunders county labor must be employed on the work under a PWA ruling.

Police Get Car Before It Is Missed by Owner

When officers found him driving a sedan later reported by the owner, Jack Devoe, 1545 South Twenty-second street, as stolen, Deacon Gardner, 22, 821 K street, was held at the city jail, Friday night.

Gardner was arrested as he drove the car south on Ninth street between G and F, officers said. The arrest was made after two boys telephoned police that a man had tried to sell them a "hot" car. The boys, who had been riding with Gardner, left him near where he was arrested, ran three blocks to a drug store and telephoned. The youths said Gardner had invited them to ride with him to a cafe outside the city limits.

Gardner told officers he had been drinking and took the car by mistake from Thirteenth and P. He said he was returning it when arrested. Devoe did not miss the car until 11 o'clock, about fifteen minutes after the machine had been recovered.

Invites Governor of Missouri, M. U. Prexy To Attend Game Here

Though Governor Bryan has not made any trips to other states during his terms of office to see football games between the University of Nebraska team and its opponents, he has extended an invitation to Governor and Mrs. Guy B. Park of Missouri and Acting President F. A. Middlebush of the University of Missouri to be here next Saturday and see their Tigers perform against Nebraska.

The governor declined an invitation from Governor Landon of Kansas and Chancellor Lindley of K. U. for he and Mrs. Bryan to be guests at the Kansas-Nebraska game Saturday.

Yankee Diamond Stars Wind Up Tour of Japan

60,000 Nippon Fans Applaud Americans' Spree of Home Runs

TOKYO, Nov. 17—(INS)—After trailing their Japanese opponents 3 to 0 at the end of the second inning, the touring All-Star professional baseball team unleashed a brutal home run attack to win their final Tokyo game of the tour today, 15 to 6.

Japs Cheer Home Runs.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, New York Yankee stars, and Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics pounded out four-baggers, much to the delight of the Japanese fans, who always are elated to see a home run, no matter which side makes it.

Clinton Brown of the Cleveland Indians was badly hurt in the fourth inning when he was hit on the head with the ball. He may be forced to cancel the remainder of his pitching schedule in the provincial games still to be played.

The Tokyo newspaper, Yomiuri, sponsor of the American invasion, presented Ruth a valuable vase in "appreciation" of a 440-foot homer he hit today. An audience of 60,000 watched the final game, Prince Kaya and Prince Takeda being among them.

The visiting players were snowed under by gifts from admiring Japanese. Score by innings:

DEAL FOR CARDS NOT ABANDONED

Oil Millionaire Still In Market for St. Louis Ball Club.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17—(INS)—Belief that the "temporarily terminated negotiations" between Owner Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals and Lew Wentz, multi-millionaire oil king, for the sale of the club to Wentz may be resumed very soon, grew here today when it became known that Wentz, in company with Branch Rickey, Cardinals vice-president, visited several downtown banks yesterday. Wentz declared recently that should he purchase the St. Louis National league club he would retain Rickey. The deal is expected also to include the Cardinals' nine affiliated minor league teams.

Belief that the negotiations would be resumed was also strengthened by the announcement by Breadon that he intended to postpone a vacation to Florida, although he declared that this "had nothing to do with the sale of the Cardinals and was for another reason" which he could not reveal at this time.

Makes Tour With Rickey.

Rickey admitted the trips with Wentz to the banks, but explained: "If Mr. Wentz were to come to St. Louis as the owner of the Cardinals, he would want to know the city's leading citizens and it might be good to have him meet some of them beforehand. The situation between Mr. Wentz and Mr. Breadon remains unchanged."

Wentz said: "Mr. Rickey and I visited about today, but there has been nothing more done regarding my deal with Mr. Breadon."

Bunnie Oakes' Boys Hope Escape Cellar

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 17—(INS)—Oregon State college and University of Montana, both without a Pacific coast conference football win to their credit, will engage in a cellar championship duel here this afternoon in the Beaver's home-coming game.

Oregon State has one more conference game to play this season, that against U. C. L. A., but it will be Montana's final attempt to score a victory.

Crete Perks Up In Defeat of Seward

SEWARD, Neb., Nov. 17—The Crete Cardinals regained their winning stride by scoring a one-sided 41-0 victory over Seward here Friday night. It was the first Crete victory in three weeks, a tie with Jackson and a loss to Lincoln marring an otherwise perfect slate.

Louis DePoyster and Don Menne were the Crete ramrods, each collecting a brace of touchdowns while Lloyd Ramsey and Kindle went over once apiece.

Crete plays North Platte Thanksgiving day on the Lincoln county field in a game which will have distinct bearing on the 1934 state championship, which apparently has narrowed down to North Platte and Lincoln.

PANTHER PICKED TO THRASH NAVY

Expert Opinion Points To Pitt as Winner Over Middies.

BY LEON W. SHLOSS.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 17—(INS)—Navy's mighty Middies this afternoon undertake the herculean task of making Pittsburgh university's Golden Panthers their eighth consecutive victim of the 1934 gridiron campaign.

Fast becoming the modern rival of "the unsinkable Mrs. Brown" of Titanic disaster renown, the Tars again have been installed as underdog, a role they have refused to fulfill on four earlier occasions.

Today, the experts say, it's in the bag. The team that nosed out Notre Dame, 10 to 6, simply can't take the club that staem-rollered the Irish, 19 to 0, and fought its only losing battle against Minnesota's juggernaut to a 6 to 13 denouement.

Capacity of 20,000.

Before a small but select audience of 25,000—capacity for the naval academy's "bandbox" stadium—two widely contrasting styles of play and two prime campaign records will be dumped into the crucible for trial by ordeal.

The epidemic of "open" play which has engulfed the nation's gridirons will be carried on by the Middies, who were expected to throw everything but Coach Tommy Hamilton's confidence in a barrage of forward passes embodying the best features of basketball and hocus pocus dominocus.

Pitt Depends On Power.

Pitt's answer probably will be its famous powerhouse, a smashing, crashing offense sweeping all before it. That's the credo "Pop" Warner taught "Jock Sutherland, which the canny Scotsman in turn has instilled in Pitt teams since 1924. Those teams have never lost two games in one season.

The meeting marks the seventh renewal of the series, which opened in 1912, and which has seen but one Middie victory. Last year, the Panthers "flailed Navy down the field by a 34 to 6 score. It also marks the first Tar eleven in eight seasons to swing into November undefeated.

Pioneers, Huskers Book Basket Bouts

DENVER, Nov. 17—(INS)—A home-and-home agreement will bring the Denver university Pioneers and the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers together on the basketball floor during the next two seasons, Graduate Manager Lou Mahoney announced today. He said he had closed a deal for a game at Lincoln on Jan. 26, 1935, and in Denver on Jan. 7, 1936.

PERU ON TOP IN SCORING SPREE

Bobcats Hang Defeat On Wesleyan In Orgy of Touchdowns.

A fighting Nebraska Wesleyan eleven which overcame a 20-point disadvantage in the second half succumbed to the Peru Normal Bobcats by a 32-26 count Friday night at Wesleyan field in the season's thriller on Plainsmen soil. Peru was ahead by 19-6 at the intermission and added to the margin as the third period opened.

Wesleyan drove to the first touchdown six plays after the kickoff. Sam Somerhalder took the initial boot five yards in his end zone and galloped 79 yards to the Bobcat 26-yard stripe and scored the marker with a 10-yard run on the sixth attempt. Peru moved ahead, however, when Sam's poor punt into the wind went out 24 yards from the goal line and Babe Story's 15-yard jaunt climaxed the drive, D. Miller placekicking the point.

Peru Gets to Going.

The second quarter was all Peru, Story again scoring on a 13-yard sweep shortly after changing goals. Marvin Miller crossed during the second period when he took Somerhalders high punt and cake-walked 55 yards down the east side lines to score, leaving Plainsmen players scattered face down in his wake and surrounded by seven interferers who had no work to do from the 25-yard line in.

It took the Cats but a few minutes to hammer back as the second half started D Miller finally plowing through from the one-yard line. Then started Wesleyan's comeback.

Somerhalder and Seyler alternated as the Plainsmen drove down the field, Sammy going over on a five-yard shot. Hawkins intercepted a pass and five plays later Somerhalder broke away for a 26-yard journey on a tackle slice, Hawkins passing to Rod Shuman for the added tally.

Wesleyan Comes Back.

Wesleyan kept up the good work as the final stanza started, Somerhalder romping to the Peru 20-yard line on a punt return. On the third play, Hawkins passed to Somerhalder for 11 yards and Sam slanted off tackle for the necessary yardage on the next play. Hawkins' pass to Rod Shuman tied the count.

But for a fumble by Somerhalder, Peru might not have won the game. Wesleyan apparently was headed for another marker when Somerhalder snared a forward pass and dropped the ball when tackled on the Peru 40-yard stripe. A few plays later Riggs swept end for 15 yards and a first down on the Wesleyan five-yard line whence he crossed in two plays. The game ended with Peru knocking again, holding the ball on the Wesleyan seven-yard stripe.

Somerhalder Hawkins, Rod Shuman and Hollis Johnson were the Wesleyan aces while Story and Riggs, Peru speed merchants kept the Bobcats ahead aided efficiently by the Millers, Delbert and Marvin.

Lineup and Summary.

Hastings Blanks Augustana.

HASTINGS, Neb., Nov. 17—Hastings college passed and plunged to a 26-0 victory over Augustana college of Sioux Falls here Friday night, counting a touchdown in each quarter. Stevenson, Young, Chase and Hopp scored the markers. Hastings has only the all-important game with Nebraska Wesleyan Thanksgiving day at Hastings on the schedule, with the N. C. A. C. pennant in the balance.

Chadron Trounces Kearney.

CHADRON, Neb., Nov. 17—Chadron Normal used its reserves in all but nine minutes of the ball game and handed Kearney Teachers a 19-6 shellacking here Friday night. Bert Keeney swept end and punched through tackle for two of the Eagle tallies, while Montague plowed for a touchdown after three long end runs by Worthington had put the ball in scoring position. Peaker, Kearney quarterback, fumbled a kickoff on his own goal line, but picked it up and raced 100 yards to a touchdown for the only Antelope tally.

Midland Upsets Doane.

CRETE, Neb., Nov. 17—Midland's light gridiron gang kicked over the dope bucket Friday night by scoring a 7-0 victory over the Doane Tigers at Simon field. The lone touchdown was registered early in the first quarter, after a blocked punt had given Midland possession in Doane territory. Ellison crossed on the third play and placekicked the extra point.

Police Grab Hamas On Speeding Charge

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(INS)—If Steve Hamas, heavyweight fighter is half as clever in the ring as he is in traffic court he'll go far.

Steve appeared before Magistrate Burke to answer to a charge of speeding with the most original alibi in many moons. He said he was speeding because he was in a hurry to get to a policeman's testimonial dinner.

The magistrate let him off with a suspended sentence.

Touchdown Harvest On Wesleyan's Field

Football fans who like their touchdowns were in seventh heaven at Wesleyan field Friday, a total of 18 such markers being recorded in the two games on the Plainsmen turf. Jackson rolled up half the total by whipping Ashland, 60-0, for the afternoon feature and Wesleyan dropped a 32-26 verdict to Peru under the arcs as nine more touchdowns were recorded.

KERR'S SLICKERS MEET SYRACUSE

Red Raiders and Orange Tangle In Important Eastern Game.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 17—(INS)—Syracuse and Colgate, a couple of devoted haters who started out on a small scale more than 30 years ago and gradually worked up to a tantrum, are to air their pent up and superfluous spleen out there at Archbold stadium this afternoon, this time in a brawl that figures to make all predecessors seem lifeless and insipid. They really do not like each other, this pair.

Beyond that, they really have something to fight for and about this afternoon, outside the usual limitations of a natural and devoted dislike. Recognized now as two of the greatest teams in the country, there is supposedly a question of more than mere Upper New York and sectional prestige riding with this one. National honor and even a Rose Bowl invitation may go with it, the Rose Bowl invitation being quite a thing, even if you don't get it.

Colgate's Fancy Passing.

Syracuse, undefeated and untied so far, is one of those nearest-of kind teams. It might not wish to go, but it definitely doesn't care to be ignored. Colgate, defeated once by Ohio State, has the whole country prattling about the way it has revolutionized the modern game with its sleight-of-hand and tricks of prestidgit — prestigit? presditig?—anyhow, it has everybody talking about the way it passes the ball around.

This is the big chance it has today. Professional price-makers think so well of this chance that they are laying 6 to 5 against Syracuse, the boys evidently being considerably impressed by Colgate's performance in giving Holy Cross and Tulane their first defeats of the season. Incidentally, the boys probably aren't overlooking the fact that Colgate hasn't lost many to Syracuse in the last 15 years.

Orange Boys Dangerous.

The Orange, nevertheless, feel that this is their year. They almost beat a good Colgate team with a bad Syracuse team the last time. Now, with a good Syracuse team, they feel they can't miss. And it is a good Syracuse team. It has handed out a few initial defeats itself, first to Ohio Wesleyan and last Saturday to Michigan State.

This last was pretty much of a convincer, in that the Orange went into the game without three regular backs—Stark, Di Nunzio and Nevins—and came out with a 10 to 0 victory. It even did better. It came out with three backs who probably will keep Stark, Di Nunzio and Nevins on the bench when the whistle blows this afternoon. In any case, one of the new trinity who is certain to start is Ginter. He was so good last Saturday, they're beginning to fear he won't keep.

Syracuse Uses Power.

Syracuse, with a heavier line, is strictly a power-ahead-of-the-ball club. Colgate is all deftness and guile. It hands the ball around between four and five men on downfield work following punts and passes. It has a fine running and passing backfield in Kuk, Kern, McDonough and Fritts, although the latter may not start. That's how good they are. They can afford to start without Fritts in the backfield. Moreover, they have seven men on the line of scrimmage who handle passes with the deftness and surety of backs.

Is that enough? It ought to be. But who can tell against a Syracuse team that has taken upward of 32 years to get really mad.

Tiger Touted to Maul Yale.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 17—(INS)—They're tossing a well-mauled Yale Bulldog into the pit with a fresh, unbeaten, untested and rampant Princeton Tiger today and the resultant carnage should be something dreadful to behold.

The lads along the big stem are laying 5 to 1 that the Tiger will take the Bulldog apart and none but the hardiest old Blue would dare to take any part of the short end.

However, old Blues have laid it on the line in other years when their team was even more outclassed than the current Yale aggregation appears to be and have seen thier foolhardiness rewarded through the flaming spirit of the sons of Eli.

Rudy Comes Back For Customary Razzing

Rowdy Rudy LaDitzi of Poughkeepsie and Chuck Middaugh, former boxer from Chillicothe, Mo., have been signed to meet in the semi-final of the wrestling program at the fair grounds Tuesday night.

LaDitzi has appeared before Lincoln audiences several times and has generated an intense dislike among the grappling bugs, while Middaugh has appeared to advantage in his few tussles around Omaha. The bout will be a two-fall-out-of-three, 30-minute time limit affair.

John Pesek and John Evko are slated to meet in a two-falls-out-of-three finish match in the headline bout, it being Pesek's first Lincoln appearance in six weeks and Evko's first showing in Nebraska.

RESERVES MAKE MOST OF FUMBLE

Lincoln Seconds Score Lone Marker to Beat St. Cecilia, 6-0.

Striking once to score and holding doggedly throughout the rest of the game, Lincoln high's spirited Reserve grid eleven took a 6 to 0 victory from St. Cecilia's Cathedral high of Omaha on Oval field Friday afternoon. The visitors never came within scoring distance.

Two lines waged bitter defensive struggles as both teams relied on running attacks for yardage. Neither eleven was able to sustain a march when it approached the promised land, although both made several in the middle of the field.

The Reserves scored in the first quarter when an Omaha fumble was recovered within 30 yards of the goal. A quick march, with Woods and Kinnamon plunging for substantial gains, netted a touchdown, and Mark Woods carried the oval the last yard off his own right tackle. A plunge for the extra point fell short.

Cathedral March Halted.

Coming back strong in the second quarter, the Cathedral club drove 50 yards to Lincoln's 20 before the Andrews forward dug in their cleats and took the ball on downs. The Reserves then returned the compliment and marched right back up the field until the visiting forwards took to digging on their own account.

Throughout the game the kicking of Bill Kinnamon, big Reserve fullback, featured the Reserve offense. Kinnamon, getting kicks of greater yardage than any booter on Bailer's first squad, also showed rare coolness at kicking out of danger in the face of charging linemen.

McCaslin, the Omaha boy who spelled defeat to Cathedral of Lincoln some weeks ago on two intercepted passes, was shaken loose for several sensational runs, but failed to do serious damage. Twice in the same game Lynch, fullback was on the sending end of a dazzling Omaha aerial game that had the locals badly worried.

The entire Reserve line played sterling defensive ball and the offensive work of Rood, Woods, and Kinnamon in the backfield was outstanding. Wachtler, halfback, showed to advantage at backing up the visiting line and Lynch and McCaslin starred as ball-carriers. The Cathedral line was listless, although stubborn at times.

CUBS TO BID FOR DEAN BROTHERS

Chicago's Bruins Ready Pay Quarter Million In Hard Cash.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(INS)—Approach of the minor league meeting at Louisville revived reports that Chicago Cubs officials will go there prepared to purchase the formidable pitching team of Dizzy and Paul Dean from the St. Louis Cardinals for $250,000 cash.

Eight officials of the Chicago National league club will leave tomorrow night for Louisville. Among them are Vice-president John Seys and Vice-president-Manager Charley Grimm.

Philip K. Wrigley, Cubs owner, has indicated a willingness to lay the quarter of a million on the line for the efficient and colorful Dean brothers.

City Amateurs In Title Mix Sunday

The Lincoln Tigers and Beilharz Signs will tangle Sunday afternoon at the Seventeenth and Holdrege lot for the city amateur gridiron championship. The kickoff is set for 2:30 and there will be no admission charge. Marion DeJarnett and Bill Kulper, former teammates at Lincoln high, will be in the Tiger backfield.

JACKSON POURS IT ON ASHLAND

Crimson Crew Peels Off 60 Points and Shuts Out Visitors.

Jackson high school's gridiron gang rolled up one of the largest scores in the history of the school Friday afternoon at Wesleyan field when the big Crimson eleven amassed a 60-0 margin of victory over Ashland high. The victory kept the Jackson slate clear of defeat and gave Coach Ralph Beechner plenty of opportunity to rest his regulars prior to the two remaining Greater Lincoln league clashes. Jackson was leading, 33-0, at the intermission. Jackson outdowned Ashland, 18 to 2.

The outcome of the game never was in doubt, the Crimson ploughing straight down the field at the first opportunity to shove Donaho across after Bus Knight and Farnsworth had led a 45-yard march. Knight flipped a 19-yard touchdown pass to Anderson a few moments later, but the play was called back, due to a Crimson offside. Knight then passed 24 yards to Elrod for the score and Farnsworth plunged for the added point.

Harrington Gets Busy.

The third Jackson score came early in the second period after Thompson had recovered a fumble 12 yards from promised land. Harrington went over on the fourth down and Donahoo recorded the extra point. Pitcaithley itercepted a pass and galloped 45 yards for the fourth score and heaved a 23-yard pass to Elrod for another marker before the half ended.

Pitcaithley's interception of another pass and runback to the 15-yard stripe set up the pins for another touchdown, Harrington hitting tackle and reversing for the necessary distance. Harrington duplicated the performance before the period ended and Donahoo inaugurated the stanza with a touchdown plunge after Pitcaithley's 20-yard run had placed the ball in position. The final score came when Bugs Bowmaster plunged for a yard with three minutes to play.

Neal Davis and Don Gunn, regular Jackson backs, were kept on the bench and Bus Knight, fullback was retired as soon as the Crimson had scored twice. Frank Harrington, starting his first game, was impressive offensively scoring three touchdowns two on long runs after crashing through the line. Harry Pitcaithley was a bearcat in the backfield, while Dale Seligman, Gordon Elrod and Jardian Thompson was ace-high in the line. The best of the Ashland team were Captain Parks, Wagner and Overton.

Falls City Claims Share State Title

FALLS CITY, Neb., Nov. 17—With a throng of 1,500 looking on, Falls City high chalked up its seventh consecutive victory of the season by conquering Beatrice, 7 to 0, here Friday.

The triumph, achieved in the second quarter on some sparkling play by Halfback Tom Gist, put Coach "Jug" Brown's Tigers in line for a share of mythical state laurels.

Gist's brilliant 26-yard return of a punt to Beatrice's 36-yard stripe put the ball in position and the Brownmen lost no time in driving down for the score. Gist plunging over from the one-foot line. A White-to-Gist pass brought the extra point. Beatrice never advanced inside the Falls City 25-yard line.

The game was the last in Nebraska competition for Falls City, which plays Sabetha next week and Hiawatha Thanksgiving day.

Miss Glynna Orr, Dallas society girl, owns the pro football team of that city. The Dallas Rams are members of the American league. Baseball clubs are owned by the widows of Barney Dreyfuss and Jack Dunn in Pittsburgh and Baltimore. But Miss Orr is the only one in football.

York High Slaps It On Shoptown Team

YORK, Neb., Nov. 17—York high obtained sweet revenge for a 6-0 licking last year by handing Havelock high of Lincoln the short end of a 20-2 count here Friday afternoon. York was leading by 13-0 at the intermission and outdowned the Engineers by a 13-3 margin.

The Buff eleven crossed early when J. Haberman snatched a fifty-yard pass from Thompson for the marker. Thompson added a second touchdown on a six-yard tackle slant in the second period while "flea flicker"—a forward pass followed by a backward flip—Thompson to J. Haberman to Ammer netted 50 yards and the third buff tally.

Havelock registered two points in the fourth canto when Reis blocked a York punt and Spore dropped on the oval in the end zone for a safety.

Season's Smallest Crowd.

When Joe Humpreys raised Olin's hand in token of victory, an agonized wail went up from 7,000 customers — the smallest fight crowd of the season—some of whom had bet as high as 3 to 1 that Rosenbloom, the perennial playboy, would retain his crown.

Harold Barnes and Charlie Lynch, the judges, both voted for Olin, while Referee Arthur Donovan cast his ballot for Maxie.

Most of the experts at the ringside credited Rosenbloom with winning at least eight of the 15 rounds.

To ringsiders, it appeared, that Rosenbloom had wiped up the ring with Olin. The judges, however, apparently were watching two other guys. The fans, knowing the pair were former stablemates, had believed throughout the battle that Rosenbloom was carrying Bob along.

When the hour of reckoning came, however, it was obvious, even to dolar ticket patrons, that Rosenbloom — and themselves — were the ones who were carried along.

BETHANY AHEAD CATHEDRAL HIGH

Clark Gridders Nose In Front Bluebirds To Win, 13 to 6.

Bethany crawled into a tie for fourth place in the Greater Lincoln league standings Friday afternoon by scoring a 13-6 victory over Cathedral high at Cotner field after the teams had been deadlocked at 6-all at the breathing spell. It was Bethany's fourth straight win, after a double loss at the start of the season, while it wound up one of the most disastrous Cathedral seasons in years.

Bethany scored early in the first quarter when Johnny Staten circled end for 20 yards and followed with an off-tackle thrust which netted 22 yards and a touchdown. Workman's placekick for the extra point sailing wide.

Sawdon Breaks Loose.

Cathedral threatened as the second period started, Malone slicing off tackle for 24 yards and placing the ball on the Maroon 34-yard stripe. Bethany stiffened however, and regained possession, only to have the Bluebirds score when Sawdon intercepted Workman's pass and scampered 52 yards to the touchdown. Malone's kick was blocked.

Another pass interception midway in the third period broke up a Bethany drive, but the Maroons hammered back early in the fourth stanza. Workman plunged for a first down on the Bluebird six-yard line and went over for the touchdown. A bad pass from center was scooped by Workman and rifled to Eddie Forst for the extra point.

Mel Workman and Johnny Staten topped the Bethany attack, while Sawdon, Joe Malone and Lucian McManus led the Cathedral offense. In the line, Captain Beck Caulkins and Forst were the Bethany aces while Jaworski, Churchill and Kilcoyne did yeoman work for the losers.

Lineup and Summary.

BAD BREAK.

An early injury brought a break of the arm to sub-Captain Dan Harston of the Texas Christian football team, and also a break in his athletic participation. He hasn't played a minute and likely will drop out so he will be eligible next year. He's in three sports.

ROBSON TEAM IN SPIRITED RALLY

College View Mounts To 13-13 Deadlock With Tecumseh High.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Nov. 17—Denied one scoring bid early in the game, Coach Merritt Robson's College View gridders came back early in the fourth quarter to tie Tecumseh, 13 to 13, here Friday afternoon.

Tecumseh marched to its first touchdown early in the initial period, Gardner crossing the line to climax the drive. A strict running game was employed on this trek, superior power and weight in the line rolling the Viewer forwards out of the way.

In the third quarter McIlravey, stellar Tecumseh halfback, tossed a long pass to Barnes, who completed the 50-yard journey over the goal line. A pass, McIlravey to Gardner, was good for the extra point.

Come From Behind.

The Robsonmen marched to within inches of the Tecumseh goal line in the second quarter, only to lose the ball on down and never get another chance until early in the final quarter.

Miller set the pins for the first Viewer score when he intercepted a Tecumseh pass and dashed 45 yards to the enemy's four-yard line. From here, Marrow carried it over on the fourth attempt Miller's placekick for the extra point was good.

Marrow was also directly responsible for the second Viewer tally a few minutes later. He tossed a 20-yard pass to Richardson, lanky end, who was witing for it in the end zone.

Parrish and McIlravey played stellar ball in the Tecumseh backfield with Peck, end, and Schmidt and N. McIlravey guards, standing out in the line. Huddleston and Whalen were outstanding in the Viewer backfield, with Walter and Jacobs giving good accounts of themselves in the line.

GOPHERS RATED SURE WINNERS

Minnesota's Juggernaut Takes On Chicago In Big Ten Battle.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 17—(INS)—Prepared to furnish such opposition as they could against one of the greatest gridiron machines in Big Ten history, Chicago's football team awaited the kickoff this afternoon for its contest with Minnesota at Memorial field.

Approximately 40,000 spectators were to see the game, which every one here has already conceded to the Gopher juggernaut by margins ranging from 10 to 40 points.

It would be a terrific upset should the Maroons pop through with a victory. It not only would be a terrific upset, but a real heart-breaker for the local fans, since they're already clamoring that the western conference relent on its rule so that Minnesota can make a trip to the Rose Bowl game—so confident are they of winning today's contest and the next week's finale with Wisconsin.
